16 Chutists Lost After Jump Over Lake Erie

2 Survivors Are Plucked From Waters

HURON, Ohio (AP) — Searchers intensified their hunt for 14 sky divers missing in Lake Erie Monday despite rain, blustery winds and choppy waters.

Of the 18 veteran sky divers who made Sunday's ill-fated jump from a converted World War II bomber, only two were known to have survived. Two bodies recovered within half an hour of the off-target jump were being kept in a temporary morgue across the street from city hall. Officials, meanwhile, tried to identify the owners of 9 helmets, 7 gloves, 3 chutes and 4 reserve chutes, the only items recovered from the lake.

Two other sky divers missed the jump by staying on the plane for a second pass at higher altitude.

Comb Lake

Helicopters, planes and an armada of Coast Guard and military and private boats that included the 110-foot ocean-going tug Kaw combed a 100-square-mile area of the lake Monday.

Nine civilian skin divers joined the search, probing the shallow 30- to 40-foot waters of the lake.

Coast Guard Lt. Paul Potter, who saw the multi-colored chutes descend through over-cast skies into the lake Sunday at 4:30 p.m., said chances that the 14 missing jumpers survived the night in the 72-degree water were "slim."

Exactly how the 18 Ohio parachute enthusiasts—most of whom had more than 100 jumps to their credit—missed their target by 10 miles was unknown. "As far as I knew, I was right where I was supposed to be," the pilot, Robert Karns of Vermilion, told Ohio Highway Patrolman John Shimp.

Radar Fix

Shimp quoted Karns as saying he was flying by a radar fix furnished him by the Federal Aviation Agency tower at Hopkins.

'In light of Internal Conditions'

Governors Resolve to Seek Delay in Guard Realignment

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP)—Midwestern governors including Wisconsin's met with their adjutants general today, then issued a statement urging the governments to hold off reorganization of the National Guard.

Citing the guard's performance in recent racial riots, the governors' formal resolution said: "Action on the proposed reorganization should be suspended until re-evaluation of the plan can be properly considered in light of current internal conditions."

The meeting at the Midwestern Governors' Conference was behind closed doors. But comments could be overheard challenging new federal proposals for intensified training of guardsmen to confront racial rioting.

"This is not riot control training; it is combat training, and the public should be informed of that," said one participant.

The governors and adjutants general defended the guard against accusations that troops had been trigger-happy during Detroit rioting that left 43 dead.

Their statement was addressed to the President, the Defense Department and Congress. It was endorsed by 13 governors.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin said the top brass and their bosses planned to discuss "civil disobedience and how to cope with it and how to get troops into action fast."

The National Governors' Conference executive committee, which includes Knowles, pledged its "full faith and confidence" in the Guard at its session here Saturday.

Iowa Gov. Harold E. Hughes

said the Guard had been given "an unfair image" by criticism of its actions in Detroit. He said the accusations, which included trigger happy firing by Guardsmen, "may not be wholly accurate."

Adjutants general from throughout the Midwest met for four hours Sunday in a secret session that apparently revolved around riot control training and response to federal criticism of the Guard.

Maj. Gen. Ralph Olson of Wisconsin and Maj. Gen. Clarence Schnipke of Michigan attended but each said the talks did not touch specifically on the Milwaukee and Detroit riots.

Knowles, who sent 4,000 Guardsmen into Milwaukee, explained at a news conference here, "We knew where we were going to go from the very beginning." Olson said the plan had been drawn nine months in advance.

Write Recommendations

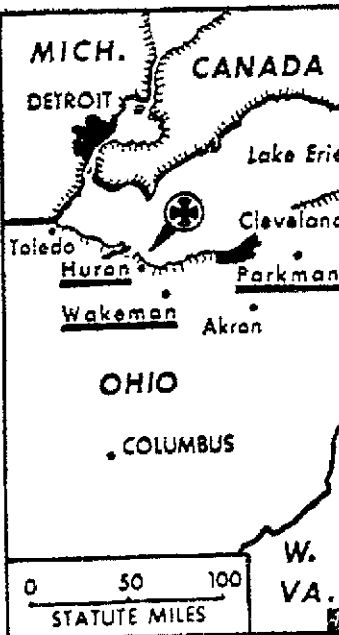

Knowles and Michigan Gov. George W. Romney were among the members of a committee asked to write recommendations to curb both racial violence and racial injustice. The report is to be delivered to the full National Governors' Conference in October.

Knowles urged that proposals to improve education, employment and housing in the cities' slums be given priority over the Guard issue during the executive committee talks.

The Wisconsin governor distributed a 19-page report with recommendations for expanded job training, intensified educational programs, and enforced housing improvements.

Skids Into Atlantic

All 14 Aboard Safe as Boston Plane Ditches

SCITUATE, Mass. (AP) — Some swam, others clung to the wing until boats arrived, but within minutes all 14 persons aboard a commercial airliner which ditched Sunday night in the Atlantic stood wet but safe on shore.

The two-engine Lockheed Electra owned by Provincetown-Boston Airlines Inc. was en route from Provincetown, at the tip of Cape Cod, to Boston, 40 miles away, when trouble developed in the right engine.

Pilot Elwood Hollowell, 38, of Naples, Fla., said he ditched the plane after repeated attempts to prevent it from losing altitude. It came down in about 20 feet of calm water 200 yards off a beach 20 miles south of Boston.

Praises Pilot
"The pilot really did a hell of a job," said eyewitness Curtis Schermerhorn, 46, a summer resident of Humarock Beach and police chief in Port Dickinson, N.Y.

"I was in the Army Air Force during World War II," he said, "and I've seen a lot of crashes. This pilot did things perfectly—he cut his power seconds before he hit the water and made a fine crash landing."

The plane stayed afloat for about eight minutes, giving summer residents with small boats enough time to pluck five nonswimming passengers from the left wing before it sank.

Five others were picked up in the water as they swam toward shore and four others reached the beach without help.

A psychiatrist aboard the plane, Dr. Calvin F. Settlege, 36, of Ardmore, Pa., who was sitting in the copilot's seat, said there was no panic among the passengers. He said the loss of altitude was so gradual that some of them were unaware until the last moment that a crash was imminent.

Making a Free Choice . . . An Analysis

Vietnamese Being Told When, How to Vote

Are South Vietnam's forthcoming presidential elections being rigged by the Saigon military government? Two Associated Press reporters investigated for a week in the northern Mekong Delta, home of more than a million voters. Here is their report.

By PETER ARNETT and KELLY SMITH

TAN AN, Vietnam (AP) — In the thatched-roof villages that line the canals criss-crossing the Mekong Delta, and in the government towns surrounded by barbed wire, the official word—delivered by millions of leaflets, by radio broadcast, loudspeaker announcements and television—is that South Vietnam's presidential election Sept. 3 will be the first opportunity for the Vietnamese people to make a free choice for a government.

But the hard facts in a country that has been dominated by dictatorship for years threaten hopes that democracy is even beginning if recent events in the northern Mekong Delta are duplicated elsewhere.

A government official suspected of supporting a presidential slate other than that of Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky might lose his job, the fate of the deputy province chief for security in Long An Province, Maj. Nguyen Van Xanh.

At a rally in Tan Tru district, two questioners expressed interest in the income of military leaders and their hopes for a peaceful solution to the war.

Two known secret policemen loudly began inquiring for the questioners' names and addresses. When word got around the province, no more embarrassing questions were asked.

Market-goers see the smiling faces of Thieu and Ky on 95 per cent of all government-printed election posters, particularly at busy intersections and on government buildings.

Should the peasants be unsure of a choice among the 11 presidential slates, he might be enlightened by any of the district chiefs. All openly favor the Thieu-Ky ticket.

Special booths are being provided for soldier voters in some districts, suggesting to some observers the possibility of voting irregularities.

As the current chief of state and premier of Vietnam, Thieu and Ky head a government and military apparatus that employ one million people. Many observers feel this guarantees their election. No other candidates have anywhere near the broad following that the military men can pull.

American officials in provinces where government officials are openly working for the military ticket are disturbed, particularly because they can do nothing about it.

"We feel the election is very important in the eyes of the Vietnamese, the American people and the world," said one. "The government could play the game here if they wanted to. They could accommodate our view that the election must be fair. In some areas they are using bullying tactics, and this is making everyone either angry or indifferent to the outcome."

The official was expressing the view of many Americans interviewed in the Delta.

There is more voter interest in the presidential election than in any previous elections held in Vietnam.

Increased interest has also been shown by the Viet Cong who are actively trying to sabotage the election by threats, terrorism, and military action.

The great mass of the people appear to know that there is an election coming up, but they have no real grasp of what it means, or who the candidates are.

Ky may get votes, not because of his military record but because his supporters tell farmers in the provinces, "Vote for the man with the mustache." He's the only candidate that has one.

Peasants often believe the election means a handout of food and clothing, because whenever the government information service comes to their hamlet to talk about voting, it brings gifts.

Only about 1 per cent of the 5.8 million registered voters is talking about the election issues, according to an American study, and these are people in

American Slain In Korean Attack

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — North Korean soldiers attacked a U.S. army unit in daylight today near the demilitarized zone, killing one American soldier and three others of the U.N. Command and wounding 25 others, the command announced.

The announcement said some U.S. soldiers were among the wounded and other victims were South Korean civilians employed by the American Army.

The attack came between the southern boundary of the zone between North and South Korea, and the U.N. Command base camp, about 550 yards south of the boundary line.

Leatherneck bases in the northern part of South Vietnam followed a series of 12 mortar shellings up and down the coast Sunday which killed or wounded more than 300 persons, most of them civilians.

U.S. officials considered the attacks another Communist effort to scare the South Vietnamese from voting in the presidential election next Sunday. It had been months since the Communists made a coordinated effort like they did Sunday.

15 Planes Lost

In the air war against North Vietnam, the U.S. Command announced that last week matched the worst previous week for warplane losses, with 15 down over the North. Two planes—an Air Force F4 Phantom and an F100 Supersabre—went down Saturday and one of the four crewmen aboard was rescued. A total of 22 fliers was reported missing during the week.

Communist gunners struck today at a Marine helicopter airstrip near Da Nang and at the Leatherneck base at Dong Ha, seven miles south of the DMZ. Four Marines were killed, 80 were wounded, three helicopters were destroyed and nine were damaged at the airstrip, military spokesmen said. The attack at Dong Ha killed six Marines and wounded 26, AP Correspondent Robert D. Ohman reported from Da Nang. He said 110,000 gallons of fuel were destroyed.

Two Marine jet pilots later reported they destroyed seven of the 12 Communist firing positions around Dong Ha.

Weather Eases Fight

Pacific Forest Fires Continue Unchecked

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Firefighters in the Pacific Northwest got a break from the weather in the battle with forest fires that have plagued the region for more than two weeks. But at least eight of the 10 largest fires continued to burn uncontrolled today. Cooler temperatures and favorable weather Sunday helped to keep some of them in check.

Widely-scattered rain, some cloud cover and cooler temperatures Sunday helped the more than 9,000 men on the firelines in Idaho, Montana, British Columbia, Washington and Oregon.

Forest officials said the "break in the weather" slowed the progress of the flames, giving crews a chance to strengthen fire lines.

Federal and state officials estimated the rash of fires—kindled in tinder-dry, practically rainless forests in the last two weeks—had blackened nearly 120,000 acres of valuable timber, brush and rangeland.

The cost of putting out the fires hasn't been estimated yet by officials, though it was expected to exceed some $20 million.

Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson is awaiting word from President Johnson on a request that his state be designated a disaster area and federal funds be allocated to help put out the fires on state lands. Samuelson said the holocaust was costing Idaho $150,000 a day in manpower and equipment and state funds had already been depleted.

Is It True Blondes Have More Fun?

BY TV SCOUT
7:30-8:30 (Channels 11-6-9) —
Do Blondes Have More Fun? is a revision of the original title Blondes Have More Fun, which tends to reveal the answer. Aside from some fun situations and many blondes, there is some talk from host Al Capp, Dr. Joyce Brothers, Anita Loos ("Gentlemen Prefer Blondes") and others. The Capp commentary is good. Among the better situations a husband coming home to find his dark-haired wife transformed into a blonde, college students professing a favoritism for blondes for fun and brunettes for wives (C).

Holiday on Ice will have a new look when the ice revue comes to the Veterans Memorial Arena in Green Bay Tuesday, Sept. 26 through Oct. 1. Costumes elaborate and beautiful will make the show outstanding along with the superb skating talent associated with Holiday shows. In this scene, four of the Glamour-Icers show off $12,000 worth of finery.

Elaborate Costumes Costing $½ Million to Enhance Holiday on Ice

Most Gorgeous, Lavish, Unique in History
Of Show; Coming to Arena Sept. 26-Oct. 1

Costumes — 500 in number because of the weight to overcome this Wittop ordered steel hoops placed at the bottom of the skirts and attached to those hoops a set of casters. These are the same as used on furniture. The audience won't see the casters, Burnett says, into brilliantly lighted gondolas that glide smoothly through a sea of fog.

Costumes of Oriental design and color that bring to the ice stage all the gaiety of a Chinese New Year in San Francisco's Chinatown.

Costumes to delight the young at heart — Little Red Riding Hood, Grandma and the Big Bad Wolf, the Little Old Lady Who Lived in A Shoe.

Opens Sept. 26
That's the way Jack Burnett, promotion director for the Holiday on Ice shows summed up the costuming of the Holiday unit that makes its annual appearance at the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena in Green Bay Sept. 26 through Oct. 1.

Holiday on Ice will stage seven performances in its six-day run at the Arena. Shows are scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday nights, with a 2 p.m. matinee Saturday, Sept. 30, and an early 5 p.m. closing performance Sunday, Oct. 1.

Burnett, on a swing through Green Bay to confer with his staff and John P. Holloway, Arena administrator, declared that the costumes in this edition of the revue is "the most gorgeous, lavish and unique in Holiday's history."

Great Costume Designer
As Burnett tells it the costumes were designed by Freddy Wittop creator of costumes for Broadway musicals and stage plays and winner of the coveted Tony Award for his costume designs for "Hello Dolly" and "On A Clear Day You Can See Forever." There is no designer greater than Wittop, Burnett insists.

Designing for an ice show is an art — completely different than designing for stage plays or the movies. Beauty is paramount, masses of color are vital and because an ice show plays upon a huge stage "bigness" is a must. Then, when the producers have plotted and planned each of the production numbers the designer must produce costumes that are appropriate — costumes which, in themselves, tell the story of the action on stage.

Split-second timing is essential to an ice show, Burnett pointed out. Because of that quick changes of costume are essential and they must be designed to enable the skaters to zip-in and "zip-out" by use of some 3,200 zippers on the various outfits.

Weight a Problem

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids
And Promptly Stop The Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

New York, N. Y. (Special): A scientific research institute has discovered a medication which has the ability in most cases — to actually shrink hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from the itching, burning and pain. Then this medication starts right in to gently reduce the swelling of inflamed, irritated hemorrhoids.

Tests conducted on hundreds of patients by leading doctors in New York City, in Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so.

Before the School Bell Rings...

During the year their world is filled with blackboards, books, parent-teacher conferences and confining activities. For one day each summer, however, they move outdoors to enjoy the freshness of breezes blown off Lake Winnebago, to relax and laugh with old friends, or walk along the sandy beaches accompanied by a contemplative mood.

About 100 teaching sisters from Appleton and Darboy were treated to a day of sun and wind, baseball and do-as-you-will by the Knights of Columbus, Council 607, on Thursday.

The nuns were picked up at noon in Appleton and driven to the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth Convent grounds, 995 Brighton Drive, Menasha, on the shores of Lake Winnebago.

The outing was held later in the summer this year so nuns recently assigned to this area could have the opportunity to meet other teachers in an informal setting.

Later in the afternoon the women chatted casually over a picnic supper, gathered together the baseballs and bats for another year and returned to their schools a bit more refreshed and tan for their day in the sun.

Richard Fitzpatrick was chairman of the event, assisted by Donald Long, Paul Russel and Louis Mauthe.

There Was Time for a solitary walk, a game of baseball and conversation with old friends at the Thursday outing for teaching sisters. Above, three of the nuns discuss their summer vacations and the coming school year. Below the more athletic enjoy a game of baseball before the picnic supper in the late afternoon.

The Cool Waters of Lake Winnebago were ideal for splashing as the weather returned to warm August temperatures Thursday. This nun, one of 100 teaching sisters in Appleton and Darboy, enjoyed the outdoors at the annual picnic sponsored by the Knights of Columbus Council 607. It was held at the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth Convent grounds, Menasha. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Shirley Gibson Engagement Of Daughter Announced

MENASHA — The engagement of Miss Shirley Ann Gibson to Wayne Allen Hoelzel has been announced by her mother. She is the daughter of Mrs. William Gibson, 1196 Preshar Place, and the late Mr. Gibson.

The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Hoelzel, 420 Nicolet Blvd.

Miss Gibson is employed by the George Banta Co., Inc. Her fiancé is with Menasha Mill Supply Co.

The couple plans a June 1 wedding.

Wedding Promises Exchanged

Miss Sharon Rae Simon became the bride of William C. Walbrun in a Saturday noon ceremony at St. Mary Catholic Church, Menasha. Officiating at the double ring rite was the Rev. James Massart.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Simon, 309 S. Outagamie St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Walbrun, 342 Winnebago Ave., Menasha.

Mrs. Fred G. Matson Port Huron, Mich., was matron of honor for her sister. Bride-maid was Miss Nancy L. Falcus.

Anthony H. Walbrun performed best man duties for his brother. Acting as groomsmen was David E. Schmidt. Guests were seated by William and Walter Stenavich.

A reception was held at the Elks Club, Menasha. After honeymooning in northern Wisconsin, the couple will reside in Appleton.

The bride, who attended the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center, is a graduate of the Neenah-Menasha Vocational School for Practical Nursing. She will be employed by St. Elizabeth Hospital. Her husband is studying special education at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

Say Nuptial Vows

A candlelight service at Faith Lutheran Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Carolyn Mae Selle and Ronald Joseph Lenz. The Rev. Henry Simon officiated at the 7:30 p.m. Saturday ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Selle, 821 N. Appleton St. The bridegroom's parents are Joseph Lenz, 1018 W. Lorain St., and Mrs. Florence Lenz, 1620 N. Richmond St.

Maid of honor at the double ring ceremony was the bride's sister, Miss Susan R. Selle. Misses Kathi and Mary Selle, the bride's sisters, were bridesmaids.

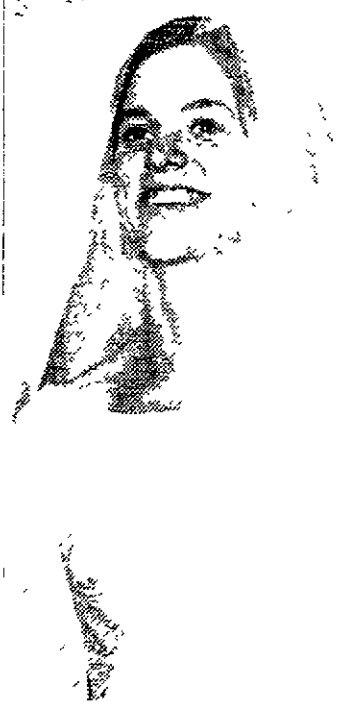

William H. Shockley, a friend of the bridegroom, was best man. Richard D. Schroeder and John A. Dimick were groomsmen. Ushering duties were shared by Michael Evarts and David Moore.

Sky's the Limit For Proposal to Airline Hostess

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The sky was the limit for Steve Musich when it came to proposing to his girl—and the idea worked.

Steve, 33, took Merry Lee Gunneson, 24, an airline hostess, on a picnic Thursday. While they munched filet mignon a small plane buzzed them repeatedly, dropping leaflets.

Her curiosity aroused, Miss Gunneson climbed a knoll and caught one of the orange-colored papers. On it, in gold lettering, were the words: "Merry Lee, I love you. Will you marry me? Steve."

Musich said Friday she stared at the leaflet for a few seconds then laughed for five minutes. But she said she would marry him, he reported.

Tired, Excited Parents View Their 'First' Quads

By ROY MALONE
ST. LOUIS (AP) — "We've never had four babies at one time before," says Richard Fahrenkrog. "I don't know if they'll all be getting up at the same time for diaper changes and feedings."

The 36-year-old father of quadruplets was tired and excited Friday. But his wife Ruth, 34, was calm. Her main thought was what to name her four new sons. She said she wanted to look at each of them before deciding. All were in "perfect condition," doctors said.

The petite redhead had given birth to six other children within the last ten years. But with this pregnancy she went from 108 pounds to 164.

Bet Father
Attending physician Dr. Nicholas A. Correnti predicted four babies. He bet the father $1 most would be girls. But the electrical engineer from suburban Florissant said he was certain all would be boys.

Despite losing the $1, Correnti was exuberant. So was the nursing staff at De Paul Hospital. Three weeks ago the mother-to-be was brought to the hospital but the pains turned out to be a false alarm. She was sent back home.

Natural Births
When she finally gave birth to the first boy at 1:03 a.m. Friday, she was just over eight months pregnant. The other three screaming boys, with slick black hair, came within a 10-minute span, at 1:42, 1:45 and 1:47. All were natural births.

Correnti said he feels the quadruplets will be identical, although he will not be certain until further tests are made. He said their weights were "terrific."

Babies Weight
They weighed 5 pounds, 2 ounces; 4 pounds, 7 ounces; 4 pounds, 3 ounces; and 5 pounds, 1 ounce, respectively.

The father said, "I was amazed at my wife's composure and calmness. Within an hour she was eating a cheese sandwich."

Multiple births run in the mother's family. Two of her sisters have twins. She said she expected to have the babies home within a few weeks. Others in the family are: Ricky, 9; Debbie, 7; Karen, 6; Craig, 5; Brenda, 3; Kevin, 20 months. The Fahrenkrogs have a three-bedroom home in the St. Louis suburb. Possibly it will be re-modeled or the family will move.

Long Tresses for Men Now Part of High Fashion Fook

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Hair today and gone tomorrow? Not for the man who wants to look with-it. The male of the species can take it from no less an authority than Vogue, his wife's fashion Bible, backed by master barber Edmond Roffler: Hair and plenty of it — as much as he feels easy with, short of inviting questions about behind-the-ear washing — is the fashion for the foreseeable future.

Actually, hirsute he-men are nothing new in history. During most of the ages when men were really men, fashionable male heads were well-tressed and well-dressed. A ruffie through Frenchman Roffler's files shows that men have always preferred their locks long — spending as much care on their hair as today's most fashionable females.

It wasn't until the 16th Century — when Francis I injured himself in a snowball fight and had to have his locks shorn under surgeon's orders — that short hair made its first appearance on fashionable heads. And even that didn't last long. As the crowned head of France healed, his hair grew longer — and men followed the trend, from towering pompadours through the G.I.'s — to turn man's crowning glory from a thing of beauty to a bore to be ignored forever. Today, though, the pendulum is swinging back where it's always belonged, and men are suiting themselves instead of a Master Sergeant. The crewcut crop — once a campus classic — is strictly for squares, and ex-infantrymen are uniformly uneasy at the sight of a sheared scalp.

If they can, they're growing it long — and when they can't, men are masking their shiny pate with hairpieces sculptured in a growing choice of styles.

Roffler — who holds his head high in professional circles, where he's known as the Father of Men's Hairstyling — credits the development of invisible hairline techniques with the renewed male interest in hairpieces. The switch to shapely styles, natural or assisted, owed its headstart, he says, to the pre-campus crowd.

John-John's Style
Today's long-hair look grows in a direct line from Britain's Prince Charles — and the fashion-minded American moms who capped Junior with the English cut. John-John Kennedy's shaggy locks cemented the trend — just in time for the first long-hairs to take their English cuts to the campus. The rest is history — with fathers getting the word from their sons, and letting their own thinning locks grow fashionably full.

The big trouble is not too much hair, but too few barbers who know how to cut it.

Roffler's new mission is teaching the sculptur cut, which he imported from France, to his fellow professionals — turning them back into stylists, after years of barbering in the snip-in-time - saves-nine school.

The theory behind the new technique is that razors, and how you use them, make the difference — as much difference, master barbers say, as that between a housepainter's touch with a brush and that of a fine artist. The modern barber shop offers services that most men never dreamed possible — conditioning, coloring, straightening, and fitting of hair pieces — in addition to the traditional "shave and hair-cut." Today a hair is styled to fit a man's head in a way that camouflages protruding ears, de-emphasizes a high forehead, trims chubbiness and fills out a thin face.

No doubt about it, men are more concerned with their appearance and are positively doing something for improvement.

Church Circles Schedule Bible Study Groups

Vows Said In Double Ring Rite

Miss Beth Dee Schmalz and Thomas M. Moore exchanged promises of marriage Saturday. First Congregational Church was the setting for the 4 p.m. double ring ceremony. The Rev. John Gieser officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Sterling W. Schmalz, 504 E. Roosevelt St., and Mr. and Mrs. Marland Moore, Albany.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Dale Krueger, Manitowoc, was matron of honor and Miss Pamela Stach was bridesmaid. Attending as a junior aide was Miss Kerry Jean Kading.

Sanford Moore, Albany, was his brother's best man. Peter Bolchen was a groomsman. Guests were seated by Dale Krueger and Gerald Gendron. The couple was honored at a reception at the Church Fellowship hall after the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Moore is a secretary at Wisconsin State University-Whitewater, where she attended college. Her husband is a student at WSU-Whitewater and is affiliated with Lambda Chi Alpha. After a northern Wisconsin honeymoon the couple will live at 118 S. Prairie St., Whitewater.

Aggressiveness Normal Aspect Of Growing Up

Help young children manage their feelings and "let off steam" constructively, says Viola Wilkinson, child development specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

Mrs. Wilkinson says aggressive tendencies are normal for most young children and should be channeled into acceptable social behavior. Aggression sounds disagreeable to most of us, but a certain amount is necessary to get along in the world.

Young children show aggression by biting, kicking, and temper displays. As they grow older, these physical attacks are replaced by verbal attacks.

Sometimes it's difficult to know where to draw the line. The child must learn to stand up for his rights, but should stop short of physical violence. Children should learn constructive methods of solving problems, rather than having physical or verbal outbursts.

Certain restrictions are necessary, the specialist says. But restrictions must be given with parents' love and approval or the child may become resentful. Young children must be taught by example that they must give and take to get along with others.

Young-at-Heart Woman Tells Her 'Solution' to Problem

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You'll never know what you did for me when you printed that letter from "Young At Heart"—the 70-year-old woman who longed for fulfillment night after night while her husband (who had gone dead sexually 10 years before) was snoring in the next bed. She asked if something was wrong with her and wondered if she was the only woman in the world "up in years" who had the problem. You said, "No. You are not alone."

I, too, wondered if I was alone. I am 68, look 55 and feel 35. My husband is 68, looks 75 and acts 100. On his 50th birthday he made an announcement — too many of his friends were dropping dead of heart attacks and sex was killing him twice a week, lying to my husband and taking ridiculous chances. The man swore he loved me and needed me as much as I needed him. He said what we were doing was beautiful and right. Then I began to hear his name pop up over bridge tables and in the locker room of the club. He was linked with this woman and that woman. When I was told that his car could be found every Thursday afternoon in Mrs. X's garage (Thursday was her maid's day off), I couldn't believe it. So I checked, and I saw not only his car but the man himself going into the house by the side door.

I thought I would die on the spot, but I didn't. I just promised myself I would go home and work as hard to rejuvenate my marriage as I had worked to keep the love affair exciting. I discovered that my husband was very pleased when I took the initiative. It brought out a side of him I'd never seen before. He later told me he had just given up because he was sure I had lost interest in him.

When I run into my former Romeo at social affairs I feel cheap and ashamed. But I thank my lucky stars I didn't wreck my life over him. He isn't fit to shine my husband's shoes, much less fill them. — Home Where I Belong

Dear Home: The medical literature I have read makes it plain that many people past 70 are still sexually active. "Young At Heart's" letter, however, produced such an avalanche of mail that I now believe the geriatrics set is even livelier than the literature indicates. And I say hurray for them!

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Strapping Workout

Reducing exercises sometimes performed with a prop; some call for the use of a flexible strap or some rigid objects, such as a broomhandle or yardstick. On using those props, reducers should be part of their repertoire.

1. With hands 24 inches apart, hold strap high overhead. Alter-First, working with a prop has psychological value. It seems to give more point to routines. It's like having a companion, come arms and upper back.)

2. Stretch out back down on floor and cradle arches to strap. Pull legs up perpendicular position; slowly lower to floor, pushing hard against strap. Repeat 10 to 20 times (Smooths legs, abdomen and upper hip.)

3. From starting position of Exercise 2, pull up to erect sitting position then slowly lower back to floor; tug hard on strap — really grapple with it — both coming up and going down. (Controls midriff.)

And that just about adds up to a figure under control.

Logic Will Often Solve Problems

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A bridge expert may not be able to balance his checkbook or remember his wedding anniversary, but he can think logically about a bridge hand. For example, in the recent national tournament in Montreal, Atlanta expert Dick Freeman did some useful thinking about a hand.

West opened the king of clubs, and Freeman won with the ace. He saw that he had to lose a trump, a diamond and the queen of clubs. The problem was to avoid a club ruff.

East didn't seem to be short in clubs since he had played the deuce at the first trick and would have begun a high-low signal if he had started with only two clubs. It was quite possible, however, that West had started with two clubs.

If West had only two clubs he did not have a singleton trump since with such good distribution he would have bid five diamonds instead of passing four hearts.

In short, logical thought led Freeman to visualize the very danger that existed.

Before we look at Freeman's play, we should observe that South goes down if he makes the "normal" play of leading a trump at the second trick. West takes the ace of hearts and the queen of clubs and then leads a low diamond to give the lead to his partner. Back comes a club, and West's ruff defeats the contract.

Freeman avoided this danger by leading a diamond at the second trick. East could win this trick, but he couldn't get a ruffing trick because West hadn't yet cleared the queen of clubs out of the way.

Freeman could draw trumps later, holding his loss to one trump, one diamond and one club.

Liz Carpenter Honored by Native State

SALADO, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth "Liz" Carpenter, press secretary to Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, has been honored as an "outstanding woman of Texas."

On hand Friday night with an estimated 1,000 persons was the First Lady and Mrs. John B. Connally, wife of the Texas governor.

Ceremonies included dedication of the Col. Sterling C. Robertson home as a Texas historic landmark. Robertson was Mrs. Carpenter's great-grandfather.

Former Star to Tell Plans at Press Meeting

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — Former screen star Shirley Temple Black has scheduled a news conference for next Tuesday renewing speculation that she would become a candidate for Congress.

She would be seeking the Republican nomination for the seat left vacant by the death of J. Arthur Younger, also a Republican, if she ran.

Spokesman for Mrs. Black would say Friday only that the news conference would end speculation on her plans.

Invitations Pour In for 'Lonely' Coco Chanel

PARIS (AP) — Coco Chanel, the aging pillar of Paris haute couture, says her fan mail is overflowing with invitations since an article in which she complained of loneliness.

Miss Chanel said in an interview she "found life had become lonely because most of her friends had died."

Miss Chanel recently celebrated a birthday but only admits to being "in the seventies," while the fashion world considers her estimate to be about 10 years short of the mark.

Teacher Lets Her Hair Down

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Marguerite Fleming, a teacher of eighth-grade English and science in the daytime, literally lets down her hair when she sings in a coffee house at night.

Two nights a week she releases her hair, which falls to her waist, from its pinned-up schoolroom style. She takes up her guitar to perform as a folk-song artist.

Miss Fleming finds her two careers have much in common and has introduced folksinging in her classes. "There's nothing like singing to bring out the rhythm and musical words of a poem," she says.

Double Ring Ceremony Performed

NEENAH — Miss Cynthia Helen Freund became the bride of Thomas George Olsen in a 2 p.m. Saturday ceremony at St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church. The Rev. Jerome Koerner officiated at the double ring rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John Freund, 1231 Campbell St., and the late Mr. Freund. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Weston Olsen, 830 S. Commercial St.

Mrs. Harvey Jacobs, the bride's sister, attended as matron of honor. Mrs. R. Michael Juneau, Mrs. Clement Weinandt and Mrs. Gary Halle were bridesmaids. Miss Kim Freund was junior bridal aide.

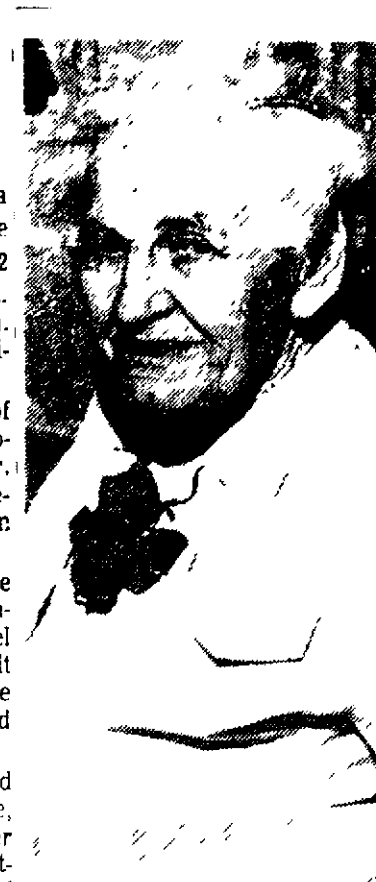

Harvey Jacobs performed duties of best man. Gary Halle, William Olsen and Walter Utter were groomsmen. Dennis Cartwright and Craig Freund seated guests.

A reception was held at the Terrace Motor Inn Appleton. The bride is employed by American Can Co. Her husband recently returned from army service.

After a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin and Canada, the couple will live in Neenah.

Wedding Promises Exchanged

WITTENBERG — Miss Cynthia Fuhrmann and George A. Meverden exchanged wedding promises in a 2:30 p.m. Saturday ceremony at St. Paul Lutheran Church. Officiating at the double ring rite was the Rev. Richard W. Borchers.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Fuhrmann, route 2, Wittenberg. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reinhardt Meverden, route 1, Eland.

Mrs. Herman Kunst, Appleton, was matron of honor. Acting as bridesmaid was Miss Karen Meverden.

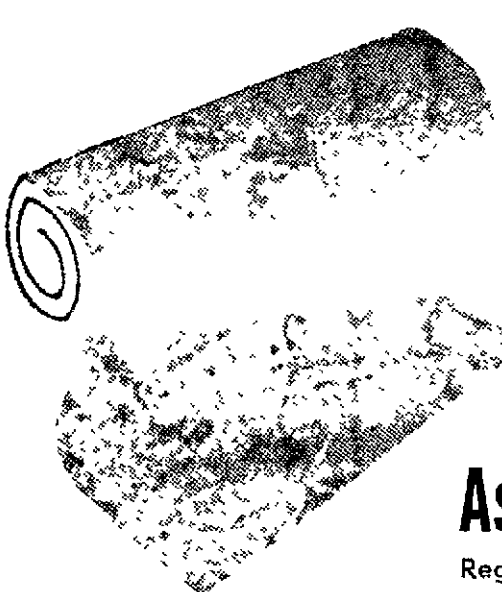

Best man's duties were performed by Herman Kunst, Appleton, the bridegroom's cousin. Acting as groomsmen was Dennis Rew. Guests were seated by Gerald Meverden and Gustave Fuhrmann.

A reception was held at Chet and Emil's Ballroom, Birnamwood. After honeymooning in Upper Michigan, Minnesota and Canada, the couple will reside in Birnamwood.

The bride is employed by United Papermakers and Paperworkers, Schofield. Her husband is with Rew Motors Inc., Birnamwood.

He added that some of them serve city children crossing Northland Avenue to attend schools in Grand Chute, in

Top Insurance Men Gather

Group in Appleton To Plan Format For Florida Meeting

Top executives of leading fraternal insurance groups in America will meet in Appleton Thursday to study convention format for the Sept. 24-27 meeting of the National Fraternal Congress of America at Hollywood-by-the-Sea, Fla.

Plan Reception

Also attending will be Judge Harold J. Lamboley, Monroe, retired Green County judge and Supreme Advocate of the Knights of Columbus, and Foster P. Farrell, Chicago, secretary-treasurer of the National Fraternal Congress.

In conjunction with the visit of the national Knights of Columbus officers, District Deputies and Grand Knights of KC councils in districts 7 and 41 from Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Combined Locks and Little Chute have planned a reception for McDevitt and Lamboley at 4:15 p.m. Wednesday at the Conway Motor Hotel.

A press conference also is scheduled for that time.

17-Year-Old Throws Glass at Squad Car, Now Rests in Jail

A 17-year-old Appleton youth who started his troubles with the law by throwing a glass at a squad car Sunday night is sitting in the Outagamie County Jail awaiting a juvenile court appearance which probably will come Tuesday.

Police were summoned about 11 p.m. Sunday to the area of Spencer and Douglas streets where several youths were drinking and throwing glass in the street.

A patrolman coming down Douglas Street observed a youth dressed in black pants and a white T-shirt with black lettering, standing on the corner with a beer glass in his hand.

Police Pursue Youth

He threw the glass at the squad car and ran north on Douglas Street, with police in pursuit.

Parents Spend Nearly $14 Million

Valley Residents Pay More in Tuition Fees

Special to The Post-Crescent

NEW YORK — For Fox Valley area residents who are sending more of their children to college these days, the cost of education is zooming.

In many families it has become a major financial expenditure and in some cases, involves a bigger capital investment than was made for the family home.

The bill that parents from Outagamie, Calumet, Waupaca and Winnebago counties will be shouldering this year for college tuition alone will amount to $13,904,000.

Facts and figures on college enrollments and cost have become available as a result of surveys and studies made by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Institute of Life Insurance, and others.

Sharp Rise

Nationally, they show the number of college students has been rising sharply, going from 2,935,000 in 1960 to 3,640,000 in the last six years.

Locally, the increase from 1960 to 1967 is equally impressive: Outagamie, 1,590 to 3,520; Calumet, 350 to 740; Waupaca, 550 to 1,080; and Winnebago, 1,680 to 3,630.

For those going to publicly supported colleges, the average cost per year for tuition and other fees is a little more than $1,000 and for those at private institutions, an average of $2,100, according to government findings.

The total cost to Fox Valley residents is based on the assumption that students are equally divided among the public and privately operated colleges.

This does not include other costs — clothes, room and board, books, luggage and transportation.

$3,200 Yearly

Including all these expenses, it might cost a family up to $3,200 a year to keep a youngster in a private college and up to $1,800 in public college, according to

Planners Approve Cherkasky Request

Anti-Semitism Flares Up

In a wild hearing with anti-Semitic undertones, the Appleton Plan Commission today recommended rezoning a lot on the southeast corner of Madison and Lincoln streets for a new dairy store.

The petitioner was Ben Cherkasky, owner of the Quaker Dairy Co.

In 1964 the property had been up for rezoning and the request was denied, mainly because an old wood frame structure occupied the site.

Cherkasky in seeking the rezoning now stipulated that he would erect a new dairy store and bakery retail outlet, while removing the old existing store on the parcel immediately to the south of the lot.

City Planner Walter Rasmussen recommended a approval of Cherkasky's rezoning, and the commission concurred. Ald. Arthur Hoolihan (11th) had no objection to rezoning providing the old store was replaced.

However, during the public hearing neighbors in the area took opposing sides.

At one point Cherkasky said he had always acted in good faith with people in the neighborhood but some had not treated him in a like manner.

He reviewed what took place two years ago when he bought a piece of property and agreed to raze an old building as per the wishes of some neighbors, contending that when he requested rezoning they signed a petition against it.

Gets Out of Control

Cherkasky also said he didn't appreciate some of the discriminating remarks being circulated about him.

City May Have to Live With Problem Of Tax Exemptions

City Assessor John Pierre Makes Point in Review Session

Appleton can't afford to have Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) to a high rate of tax exempt comment he thought the city property not on the municipal might well give serious consideration rolls but apparently will erration to a proposal advanced have to live with the problem, recently by Ald. Roy Pointer Assessor John Pierre cautioned (15th) today.

He made the point at the opening session of the board of review at city hall where it was announced the city's assessed valuation increased by $7.1 million in 1967.

However, Pierre said if Appleton had not lost some properties, the increase could have been "well over $8 million."

"The city tax rolls lost $810,000 due to water pollution," Pierre said, "and you're not through yet."

Tax Exemption

He explained that under new state law, firms installing special equipment to treat wastes they discharge into waterways can take a tax exemption after five years.

Pierre said a similar law applied to dust and smoke control equipment installed by local firms.

He also cited that under the law he now cannot tax a privately-operated nursing home if it occupies 10 acres or more and does not make a profit.

FVL Begins Registration This Week

Expect Largest Student Body In 15 Years

Fox Valley Lutheran High School begins registration Wednesday of what is expected to be the largest student body in its 15-year history.

Registration for students, expected to total about 460, is from 6 p.m. Thursday, 2 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, 2 to 5 p.m. Tuesday, and 9 a.m. to noon Friday.

Students will receive their schedule and locker assignments and pay their activity fee, school tuition, and insurance costs.

Expected to register are 458 students, including 97 seniors, 104 juniors, 127 sophomores and 130 freshmen. This is an overall increase of about 20 students.

The faculty is holding in-service meetings this week to prepare for the increased enrollment.

Placement Tests

Freshmen who did not take the placement tests last spring will take them Thursday from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

Freshman orientation day is slated for Tuesday, Sept. 5, with freshmen assembling in the gymnasium at 8:30 a.m.

School for all students will begin Wednesday, Sept. 6, with students assembling in the gym at 8:30 a.m.

A new course has been added to the regular school curriculum. Music II will be offered to upper classmen. Music I is required for all freshmen.

Music II is an advanced music theory course which is designed for those planning on becoming Lutheran school teachers.

The traditional opening service will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Tavern Burglary

About $125, most of it in change, was missing following a burglary early Sunday morning at Gordy's Bar, 2435 E. Newberry St.

Outagamie County sheriff's investigators said the money was taken from a cigar box on Beloit 67, Milwaukee 64, and Racine 63.

Ministers Gather in Appleton

"Fresh breezes of dialogue and inquiry blowing through the church" as a former Appleton minister put it, has resulted in Roman Catholic and Protestant theologians talking in dialogue this week in Appleton.

"The Holy Catholic Church" will be the theme of talks between the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward G. Murray and Dr. Donald Gorrell which will highlight a four-day pastors' colloquy of Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren (EUB) churches in the state.

The conference began this afternoon and continues through Thursday.

Dialogue Tonight

Four dialogues have been set, with the first scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight and the others beginning at 10:50 a.m. daily at the First Methodist Church, site of the conference.

Dialogues will deal with the Catholic (or universal) church. Roman Catholic doctrine teaches that Christians under the Pope are the Catholic Church, while Protestants historically have maintained that Christians from all denominations may be members of a "catholic church," depending on their individual faith.

Father Murray serves as pastor of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Roslindale, Mass., and was rector of the Boston archdiocese, St. John Seminary. Dr. Gorrell is associate professor in church history of the United Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio.

A graduate of Miami University, Dr. Gorrell received his B.D. from Yale Divinity School and his Ph.D. degree from Western Reserve University.

Motorcycle Hits Fence, Riders Taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital

Two young motorcycle riders, Jannie P. Hall, 17, 514 E. Coolidge Ave., had injuries to her head and right arm.

Police said the cycle was eastbound on Prospect when it left the road on a curve and crashed into a chain fence.

Cars Hit on Bridge

Mary B. Zierner, 17, 713 E. Dennison St., suffered a cut face and chest pains when the car in which she was riding ran head-on into another vehicle about 2:45 a.m. Sunday on the E. College Avenue bridge.

She was in a car driven by Richard A. Schuenemann, 18, 622 S. State St., which was westbound when it struck a car driven by August R. Peotter, 24, 2500 S. Kernan Ave.

Police said it appeared both cars went over the center line. The Peotter car was spun around completely in the crash.

Two Have Minor Injuries

Two persons suffered minor injuries in an accident about 9:45 p.m. Saturday at Drew Street and W. Wisconsin Avenue. Injured were Mary Jo Paltzer, 721 1/2 W. Winnebago St., and Carolyn J. Corrigan, 37, 1139 Oakcrest Drive.

Police said Timothy Paltzer, 21, also of 721 1/2 W. Winnebago St., was eastbound on Wisconsin when he struck the rear of the Corrigan car which was southbound on Drew. Paltzer reportedly told police he was talking to a passenger and did not see the Corrigan car.

Judge Gustave J. Keller in jail and ordered his license revoked for another year on the driving after revocation count, and levied the $100 fine, or another 60 days, in jail, for cluding.

Chiles, object of a high speed chase by Appleton and Outagamie County police early Thursday morning, had pleaded innocent Friday and his trial was set for Oct. 23. He was in jail under $500 bond.

High Speed Chase Costs Driver $100

A high speed police chase and failure to have a drivers license cost a 20-year-old Menasha youth 30 days in jail, a $100 fine and further loss of his license, this morning.

Gerald L. Chiles, 816 1/2 Roosevelt St., changed his plea to guilty this morning in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on charges of driving after his license was revoked, and eluding police.

Turpentine Catches Fire At Construction Site

Appleton firemen are attempting to determine how a can of turpentine caught fire Sunday afternoon in a garage in the 1700 block of N. Edgewood Drive.

Firemen were called to the construction site about 5:25 p.m. after someone reported seeing smoke pouring from the unfinished garage, owned by Cyril Griesbach, 1927 W. Birchwood Ave.

It was vice-chancellor and is now a member of the board of consultants of the Archdiocese of Boston, of the board of trustees of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Holy Cross College, Cardinal Cushing College and the World Affairs Council.

Economic Analysis Will be Completed

Neenah to Hand Over Data To Planning Firm by Sept. 10

CHICAGO — The first half of the one-two punch in redevelopment planning for the central business district in Neenah is expected to be completed in two weeks.

Russell Straley, of Real Estate Research Corp., said this morning his firm will turn over its data and recommendations on what the market will bear to Kenneth Schellie and Associates, planners from Indianapolis, Ind., by Sept. 10.

The economic analysts will work closely with the planning firm which has been selected to update its own 1961 comprehensive plan. The completed package should be ready by the first of the year.

In Town

Straley said he would be in Neenah later this week to interview a few businessmen and property owners in the downtown core, earmarked for rejuvenation.

Vandals Hit County Area On Weekend

Extensive Damage To Nine Windows On West College

Outagamie County authorities were kept busy this morning investigating a rash of vandalism complaints from various parts of the county.

The most extensive of the vandalism occurred at three business places on W. College Avenue, where a total of nine windows were shattered by BBs or pellets.

Seven windows, ranging in size from 33 by 33 inches to 97 by 53 inches, were damaged at Robert Hall Clothes and a 9 by 4-foot window at American State Bank and a 9 by 5-foot window at Accurate Alignment Service, Inc., also were stuck.

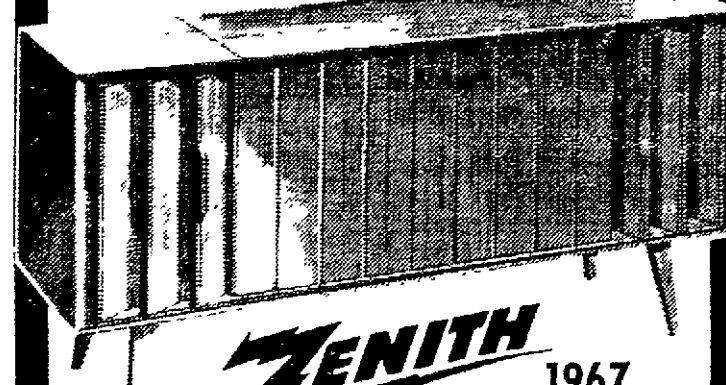

All of the window breakage was reported to the sheriff's department this morning.

At Oneida, vandals broke into and damaged a county-owned crane and stole a large amount of tools. They also pulled cores out of tires from a trailer parked nearby. An investigator said there might also be motor damage to the county equipment, which was parked along the Old Seymour Road, just off County Trunk H.

A trailer, owned by Baer's Beverage, Inc., Menasha, was broken into while it was parked behind Freedom High School, over the weekend. Investigators said nothing appeared to be missing from the trailer, which contained more than 160 beer cases, most of them empties.

About 50 pounds of unpopped popcorn was taken from a stand behind Freedom High School. A small amount of change was left in a cash register. Authorities said the beer trailer and stand were used during a ball game at the school today.

Heavy Labor Day Traffic to Jam U.S. 41 Butte des Morts Bridge

FOND DU LAC — The Labor Day weekend is expected to bring another large volume of traffic to state roads, in keeping with the general increase of traffic throughout the summer, according to the district office of the state patrol in Fond du Lac.

Well over 20,000 cars a day are expected on U.S. 41, with heavy traffic beginning Friday night.

Traffic for the four days is expected to reach some 80,000 to 100,000 cars.

One of the main traffic problems over a holiday weekend is the U.S. 41 bridge over Lake Butte des Morts. If more than 1,500 cars an hour use the bridge, a traffic backup is inevitable.

Back-ups are expected Friday evening, Saturday morning, and Sunday.

There were 26 highway fatalities in the state over the Labor Day weekend last year, including 22 rural deaths and 4 in urban areas.

A 3 per cent increase in traffic volume every year is expected to be reflected in weekend traffic.

Bussing Begins In Hortonville District Tuesday

Record Number of Children Will Be Transported

HORTONVILLE — School district buses will transport a record 1,556 school age children this year, Supt. George S. Akin reports.

Because of the new state statute on transportation of private school children, some charges in scheduling and routes were made.

Akin said there would be 26 bus routes this year — with bussing of children beginning Tuesday, the first day of school. One bus will be stationed in Mackville for the transportation of parochial students in the district to St. Edwards School, Mackville. Another bus is to be stationed in Greenville for transporting students to St. Mary's School, Greenville.

Pupils at Bethlehem Lutheran School and St. Peter and Paul School, Hortonville, will ride on buses making usual public school runs.

Paul Kreul, in charge of overseeing bus transportation, said the routes would be nearly the same as last year and stops will take place at approximately the same time.

Parents of kindergarten children will receive letters informing them of the pick up time of their youngsters.

vice will be held this year after the first week of school on Sunday, Sept. 10.

The rite, expected to draw 800 students, parents, and friends, will begin in the Lutheran High gymnasium at 2 p.m.

Install Teachers

Two new teachers will be installed, and the Rev. Harold Warnke, principal, will preach.

Included in the 25-member staff this year will be two new instructors who formerly taught in grade schools. Walter Bock, who replaces Andrew Domson, will teach junior religion and ancient history I.

The 1959 graduate of Dr. Martin Luther College, New Ulm, Minn., earned his master's of arts degree in senior high school teaching with concentration on history at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, Mich. He taught for two years in Valentine, Neb., where he was principal of a Lutheran grade school, and for six years in Owassa, Mich.

Teaching some senior English sections will be Gerald Jacobson, who also will teach some sophomore English classes and a special freshman English class.

A graduate of Wisconsin State University - Oshkosh, Jacobson earned his masters degree at the University of Wisconsin. He taught for six years at Bethel Lutheran School, Menasha, including four years as principal.

Returning Teachers

Returning after a year's leave of absence are the Rev. Edgar J. Greve and Dennis Oldenburg. Pastor Greve received his master's of science degree in guidance this summer from WSU-O. He will teach sophomore religion and serve as guidance director. Oldenburg, who received his bachelor of science degree from Mankato, Minn., will teach general science, physics and physical science.

Also receiving master's degrees after a series of summer school sessions were Lynn Sackenheim and Dave Umnus. Sackenheim received his in guidance from Mankato State, while Umnus earned a degree from Wisconsin State University-La Crosse in education with concentration on physical education.

Hortonville Buses Will Carry Lutheran Pupils

HORTONVILLE — A church service this morning opened the school year for Bethlehem Lutheran School youngsters, who will be transported on public school buses beginning Tuesday.

Members of the teaching staff are Grace Fox, first and second grades; Mariam Olson, third, fourth and fourth; Mrs. John Kaehl, fifth and sixth, and David Jacobs, seventh and eighth grades.

'Exciting' Stops Enroute

St. Joseph Scouts Return From Two-Week Bus Trip to Expo 67

Families of St. Joseph Catholic Church Boy Scout Troop 1, alerted by phone calls from stops along the way, gathered in front of St. Joseph School Saturday afternoon to greet the 28 Scouts and four adult leaders as their bus returned from a two-week trip to Expo 67.

Proudest scout to get off the bus was Michael Bates, whose patrol took honors for the 2,360-mile trip. Divided into four patrols, the boys did their own cooking, took care of their clothing, and disciplined themselves. They were under the immediate supervision of Guy Vander Wyl, senior patrol leader and Greg Scholtz and Richard Fischer, junior assistant scout masters.

Adult Travelers

Adults who accompanied the boys were Charles Schmidt, troop leader; Syl Fischer, committeeman, who drove the bus; Royal Richter, committeeman, and Richard Novitske, assistant scout master.

Although Expo 67 was the highlight of the trip, and included four days of camping at Hospitality Camp in Montreal, where the boys lived with scouts from 70 nations, the group made "exciting" stops on the way up and back.

Schmidt said one of the most educational and interesting stops was at the Strategic Air Command, Kincheloe, (Mich.) Air Force Base where the scouts watched a demonstration of crash-crew rescue work by the Air Force Fire Department on a hypothetical flight-line fire. The visit included a tour of the base and its jet fighters and bombers.

Other United States stops included the locks at Sault Ste. Marie, Ford Museum in Detroit and Niagara Falls.

In Canada the boys took a trip through World Scouting headquarters in Ottawa and attended mass at the Notre Dame Cathedral in Montreal, where services are conducted in French.

American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Bishop Ralph Taylor Alton, resident bishop of the Wisconsin area of the Methodist Church, will be in charge of the pastors at a worship service and communion at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Bishop Alton was elected to the episcopacy in 1960 from the pastorate of the First Methodist Church here, where he served for 10 years, before moving to Madison to administer the work of about 500 churches with 135,000 members in Wisconsin.

Citing the "fresh breezes of dialogue and inquiry," he said, "The questioning minds of our people in these turbulent times demand continuing renewal of conviction and commitment on the part of the pastors."

Heads EUB

Daily worship leader will be Bishop Harold R. Heininger, resident bishop of the North-western Area of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

He heads approximately 100,000 members in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and Northwest Canada. He was elected to the episcopacy in 1954 from the position of professor of Christian Theology at Evangelical Theological Seminary.

"The Evangelical United Brethren Church and the Methodist Church will merge soon as the United Methodist Church."

Dr. George Wesley Buchanan, associate professor of New Testament, Wesley Theological Seminary, Washington, D.C., will speak on "The Church's Heritage from Judaism" and provide background material for the interfaith dialogue between Father Murray and Dr. Gorrell.

Neenah Pastor

The Rev. David C. Hinshaw, Neenah, is the dean of the pastors school. He will be assisted by the Rev. Bryce G. Armstrong.

Pastors acting as hosts are the Rev. Kenneth Engelman and the Rev. Charles Logsdon of the First Methodist Church. Housing will be furnished in Lawrence University dormitories.

The Rev. Jerry Eckert, of Algoma, this year's registrar, will be assisted by the Rev. Don Sunwalt, Markesan, and the Rev. Billy Bross, Madison. The Rev. Willard Schultz, EUB conference superintendent of Southern District, Maquon, has been the chairman of the committee in charge of the pastors' school arrangements.

Appleton Youth Guilty of Second Beer Charge

WAUPACA — James M. Moriarty, 18, 2544 S. Wood Drive,

Appleton, paid fines totaling $250 Saturday for off premise possession of beer and disorderly conduct, when he pleaded guilty to the charges in municipal Justice Court.

Moriarty was arrested at Hartman Creek State Park by Ronald Nelson, park manager, who found the youth along with others drinking beer in the camp grounds. Upon admitting Moriarty to the park, Nelson informed him that it was illegal to have beer in the park. He was arrested at 2:30 a.m.

After his arrest he used profane and abusive language and was charged with disorderly conduct. He was held in county jail until he appeared in court.

In addition to fining Moriarty, Justice George Whalen suspended his driver's license for 45 days. It was Moriarty's second arrest at the park on the same charge since May.

'Corn Festival' Ends Tuesday

HORTONVILLE — A free corn roast at 9:30 p.m. Tuesday will conclude the week-long "Corn Festival" sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Entertainment will be furnished by the high school band in a concert and a street dance for teenagers will be held at the parking lot behind Borchardt and Moder Furniture Store.

A drawing for prizes will be conducted during Tuesday's festivities. Registration for prizes is being conducted by participating merchants.

other tax exempt properties and the fact that residential construction has dropped considerably locally.

"In 1966 we put 406 new homes on the rolls, but this year the total was only 209," Pierre declared.

The veteran assessor also noted that more than $180,000 was dropped from the 2nd and 4th Wards (downtown) over the past year with the removal of old buildings and vacancies.

"You just can't keep losing this kind of taxable property," Pierre said, adding, "I have nothing to do with the tax rate or how you spend the city's money. I just follow the law pertaining to assessing."

On the brighter side, Pierre said the city enjoyed a big year when it came to industrial expansion and a sharp increase in personal property (inventories).

Asked about Appleton real estate values, Pierre said old homes were selling at "good prices."

The board heard one minor complaint on an assessment this morning and had a major one withdrawn. There are 10 persons objecting to 1967 assessments.

Hearing objections are: Aids, Al Stoegbauer (4th), Norman Beyer (20th), Walter Kalatta (2nd), John Ayers (12th), Mayor George Buckley and City Clerk Elden Broehm, the latter board secretary.

U Thant Asks for Record U.N. Budget

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, who wants to add 524 persons to the U.N. staff, has proposed a record 1968 budget for regular U.N. activities of $141.6 million. This is an increase of $12.4 million, or 9.6 per cent, over 1967 expenditures.

Catholic School Starts Schedule At Hortonville

HORTONVILLE — A full class schedule will open school Tuesday for SS. Peter and Paul Catholic School children, Sister Mary Alice, Principal, has announced.

Teaching staff will be Sister Mary Alice, first and second grades; Mrs. Alice O'Connell, second and third grades; Mrs. Mary Stevens, third and fourth grades; Sister M. Dominic, a transfer from St. Mary's, Altoona, Pa., grades five and six, and Sister M. Camilla, a transfer from St. Luke's Two Rivers, seventh and eighth grades.

Trouble Expected On Several Fronts At Arab Meeting

Unified Israeli Policy, Yemen Civil War Key Topics of Talk

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A summit conference of Arab leaders opens in Khartoum Tuesday to forge a unified policy toward Israel, but divisions among the Arabs on the civil war in Yemen and relations with the West may diminish the cordiality of the meeting.

Algerian President Houari Boumedienne is apparently reluctant to attend the conference in the Sudanese capital because he fears moderate leaders will prevail in policy making.

Foreign ministers of 13 Arab nations met in Khartoum Sunday and approved the agenda for the summit. Egyptian sources said the ministers regard the dispute over Yemen as foremost among inter-Arab feuds. Egypt backs the Republican regime in Yemen against Royalist rebels supported by Saudi Arabia.

Stance Toward West

The Arab world is also divided in its stance toward the West. Eight Arab nations broke relations with Britain and the United States, accusing them of aiding Israel in the June 5-10 war against the Arabs. But five other Arab nations kept diplomatic relations with the two Western powers.

Two of the five, Tunisia and Jordan, touched off a dispute at the foreign ministers meeting by pushing for a plan to improve relations with the West. Most foreign ministers argued that the question of continuing the embargo on oil shipments to the United States and Britain should be dealt with at the summit level.

Reports in Cairo of deeper Soviet involvement on the Egyptian-Republican side of the Yemeni civil war dimmed hopes for settlement of the 5-year-old conflict. Yemeni President Abdullah Al-Sallal conferred secretly in Yemen with a Soviet delegation Friday, then flew to Cairo for talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Meanwhile, the repatriation of Arab refugees to the Israeli-occupied west bank of the Jordan River continued to lag. Only 1,368 refugees straggled across the bridges Sunday. With only 11,392 refugees repatriated by Sunday evening, officials said it was unlikely more than 20,000 in all could be returned home before the Israeli deadline of Aug. 31.

United Nations officials aiding the refugees estimate the total number east of the river at 170,000, while Jordan claims the total exceeds 200,000.

Israel accepted a proposal by Gen. Odd Bull, the U.N. cease-fire observer chief, to extend indefinitely an arrangement whereby neither Egypt nor Israeli ships use the shut-down Suez Canal. Egypt was reported to have accepted Bull's proposal too.

Proxmire Calls For Reduction In Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, chairman of the Joint Senate - House Economic Committee, called today for a $9 billion spending cut in place of President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes.

But, the Wisconsin Democrat said, no spending reduction would be possible without Johnson's concurrence.

"It is difficult or impossible for any congressional coalition to resist the great pressures for spending unless the President leads the way," Proxmire said.

He said big cuts could be made in the public works and space programs and more money could be saved by the withdrawal of four of the six U.S. divisions from Europe. He called for at least a one year postponement in spending on the multi-billion-dollar supersonic air transport development program.

Toned-Down Toxins

Man's Medicine From Sea Poison?

KINGSTON, R.I. (AP) — Toned-down poisons from animals and plants of the sea may ultimately yield powerful new medicines for mankind, a scientist said today.

Prof. Ara Der Marderosian of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science made the forecast at a symposium on "Drugs from the Sea" being held at the University of Rhode Island.

Indeed, he said, one such toned-down toxin—a chemical called tetrodotoxin and derived from the puffer fish of the Pacific—already is in use by Japanese physicians as a muscle relaxant and as a pain killer in hopeless cases of cancer.

Local Anesthetics

Two other researchers said a potentially paralyzing chemical—called saxitoxin and obtained from contaminated shellfish—appears to offer a lead toward improved local anesthetics for use in dentistry and minor surgery.

They indicated, however, that the research—at the U.S. Public Health Service Laboratory in Narragansett, R.I.—has so far been limited to experimental animals.

The symposium, being attended by more than 200 researchers from university, government and industrial laboratories is co-sponsored by two scientific organizations and by the University of Rhode Island's College of Pharmacy.

Prof. Marderosian also listed several other new drugs, aside

China, Britain Show Further Hostilities

LONDON (AP) — Chinese Communist diplomats blew their car horns and shouted at Scotland Yard detectives trailing them today near the Chinese trade office.

The Chinese were protesting restrictions on their movements imposed in retaliation for the sacking of the British Legation in Peking last week.

The Chinese, wearing Mao-style "boiler suits," waved little red books and treated about 20 onlookers to a reading in English from "The Thoughts of Mao."

Smiling, one Chinese said this was intended "to promote friendship between the Chinese and British peoples."

The foreign office said Britain's charge d'affaires in Peking, Donald Hopsin, still had not succeeded in obtaining plane seats for 36 members of his staff—34 of them women and children.

Hopsin is back working in his office and able to communicate with London by commercial cable only. The diplomat's direct radio link has been shut down by the Chinese.

Wilson Makes Shakeup In British Leadership

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson today hustled through a major shakeup of his ministers in a bid to beat mounting political and economic challenges facing his Labor government.

Wilson arranged to announce up to about two dozen hirings, firings and promotions tonight in the most extensive reorganization of the nation's leadership since Labor won power in October 1964.

It seemed probable, however, that Foreign Secretary George Brown and Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan will keep their jobs, at least for the time being.

No Drastic Changes

The clear purpose of this will be to demonstrate that no drastic changes are contemplated in Britain's foreign policy and that no devaluation is intended.

The departure of either man at this time could, according to political authorities here, be misconstrued abroad.

The Wilson government currently has several king-size problems before it, the most important being the nation's economic and fiscal difficulties, reflected in an unemployment total of nearly 600,000, the highest in 17 years.

Rhodesia Dispute

In addition, Wilson has been trying behind the scenes to settle the festering dispute over the future of Rhodesia, where a white minority government nearly two years ago seized power in defiance of London's authority.

At least three are expected to leave their Cabinet posts.

They are Michael Stewart, minister for economic affairs and rated No. 3 in the hierarchy; Douglas Jay, president of the Board of Trade, who has been lukewarm towards Britain's projected entry into the European Common Market, and Commonwealth Secretary Herbert Bowden, who has been resisting suggestions for a compromise with the Rhodesian rebel prime minister, Ian Smith.

VFW Objects to Nazi Plans For Burying Slain Rockwell

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — A veterans' group today protested against plans of the American Nazi Party to bury George Lincoln Rockwell in a national cemetery with full military honors.

Party members were awaiting a Defense Department decision on whether Rockwell, leader of the anti-Negro and anti-Jewish stormtrooper organization, can be buried Tuesday at the Culpepper, Va., National Cemetery, 65 miles southwest of Washington.

Rockwell's accused assassin, John C. Patler, 29, faced a preliminary hearing in Arlington County Court.

Plead Innocent

Attorneys for Patler, an expelled American Nazi official, said he would plead innocent to a charge of murder. He is held on $50,000 bail.

Police charge Patler shot Rockwell Friday as the 49-year-old "fuehrer" sat in his car at a shopping center across a busy street from the run-down 23-acre estate that is party headquarters.

Patler was arrested shortly afterward a few blocks away. Police recovered Saturday what they identify as the murder weapon—a 7.62 mm semiautomatic Mauser pistol. It was found in a stream three blocks from the shooting scene. Its ownership has not been determined, police said.

Rockwell was shot once through the chest, authorities reported. Two shots were fired.

Mental Exam Ordered

ARLINGTON, Va., (AP) — A psychiatric hearing was ordered today for John C. Patler, 29, accused of murdering Commander George Lincoln Rockwell of the American Nazi Party.

Patler's preliminary hearing was thereupon postponed until Aug. 31.

Objecting to the party's plan to bury the 49-year-old Rockwell at Culpepper, Robert Miller, chief of staff for the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Virginia, said: "It is wrong for a man living against the ideals we have fought for should be laid to rest beside comrades who have given their lives for the country's freedom."

Rockwell's family wanted to bury him at Boothbay Harbor, Maine, near the home of his father, retired vaudeville and radio comedian George "Doc" Rockwell.

Twins Regain AL Lead as Red Sox, White Sox Split

Bases-Loaded Walk to Colavito Gives Chicago Second-Game Win

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Stanky's hit sign wasn't doing him much good so the Chicago White Sox' skipper adapted to the conditions and switched to a waiting game.

Stanky's patience paid off in a run without a hit that gave the White Sox a 1-0 11-inning victory and a split of a Sunday double-header with Boston.

The Red Sox took the opener 4-3 with Carl Yastrzemski slamming his 33rd and 34th home-runs of the season. The split, combined with Minnesota's 6-3 victory over Cleveland, moved the Twins into first place, one percentage point in front of Boston. Chicago is third, one game back and Detroit, which lost 2-1 to Kansas City, is fourth, 1½ behind.

The White Sox, whose team batting average is hovering around .230—ninth best in the American League—had managed just four hits against Jose Santiago and Darrell Brandon in the nightcap. In the 11th inning, Stanky decided to stop swinging and start waiting.

Brandon, who had taken over in the 10th when Santiago collided with catcher Mike Ryan and injured his knee, obliged nicely. The tall reliever walked

Picked 'All-Star'

Little Chute third - baseman Jim Vande Wetering, who clubbed three home runs and batted .470 in five games, was named to the 13-man all-tournament team selected by officials of the National Baseball Congress Sunday.

Vande Wetering's total of three homers still stands as individual high for the semi-professional tournament, which winds up this week. The Little Chute star also drove in nine runs and scored five in helping his team to three wins in the tourney.

Won't Retaliate Because of Stakes; Stanky Denies Charge Bosox in Beanball Charge

By JOE MOOSHIL
CHICAGO (AP) — A simmering feud between the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago White Sox, both contending for the American League pennant, could erupt into a full-fledged war this weekend when the two teams collide for the last time this season in a four-game series in Boston.

Both teams continued to chop up each other as they concluded a five-game series with a double-header split Sunday and indications were that tempers are beginning to run short in the hectic chase for the flag.

Carl Yastrzemski crashed his 33rd and 34th homers to give the Red Sox a 4-3 victory in the first game and the White Sox behind nifty pitching by Gary Peters captured the nightcap 1-0 when Rocky Colavito drew a bases-loaded walk in the 11th inning.

Make Accusations

Despite their opening game victory Sunday, the Red Sox were accusing White Sox pitchers of throwing at them.

The big incident came in the fifth inning of the first game after Yastrzemski homered off rookie Fred Klages. George Scott followed Yastrzemski to the plate and was hit by a pitch.

"I heard Stanky order Klages to throw at me," said Scott.

"He's got it all wrong," said Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky. "If he had heard me order Klages to hit him, then the umpires also would have heard it and I'd have been tossed out of the game."

"I'm all for protecting my being hit by pitchers, doesn't that guy named Jim Lonborg who pitches for Boston lead the league in hit batsmen?"

"And aren't they paying dear-ly for it?" continued Stanky.

"You know Tony Conigliaro isn't playing because he was hit by a pitch. That was a result of Lonborg hitting somebody else."

Stanky retorted, "I don't know what they're talking about. I don't play the game that way."

Bow to Cedar Rapids, But Only 2 Remaining Contenders Lose, Also

BY TIM PETERMANN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"No, we didn't back into it," retorted Appleton manager Alex Cosmidis when informed that, despite his team's 7-3 loss to Cedar Rapids, the Foxes had clinched the Midwest League's second half championship Sunday because second-place Quad Cities and third-place Decatur had both been beaten, also.

The Foxes now lead Quad Cities by 3½ games and Decatur by four with three games remaining for each team.

Cosmidis was quick to defend his statement by noting that, earlier in the second half campaign, the Foxes had won the games they had to against various contenders to mount a fairly comfortable 5½-game lead two weeks ago that has held them up through a recent losing streak.

Since July 17

His reference was to the fact that the Foxes' opponent in at least five different series was the team that was in second place at the time it met Appleton. The Foxes dismissed each of them in turn and have been on top of the league since July 17.

"After we built up the big lead, the pressure was on the other clubs to win, not us," added Cosmidis whose injury-plagued squad has won only four of its last 13 games to bring the pennant-clinching day closer to the wire than most Fox Citizens had thought it would be.

Cosmidis called the championship "a team effort" and said he was "proud of the boys." He added that the boys had "the will to win."

The Foxes' second half championship means that Wisconsin's only two representatives in the 10-team Midwest

Foxes Plan to Charter Bus For 'Rapids'

The Appleton Foxes baseball club is planning a charter bus to the opening Midwest League playoff game at Wisconsin Rapids Thursday.

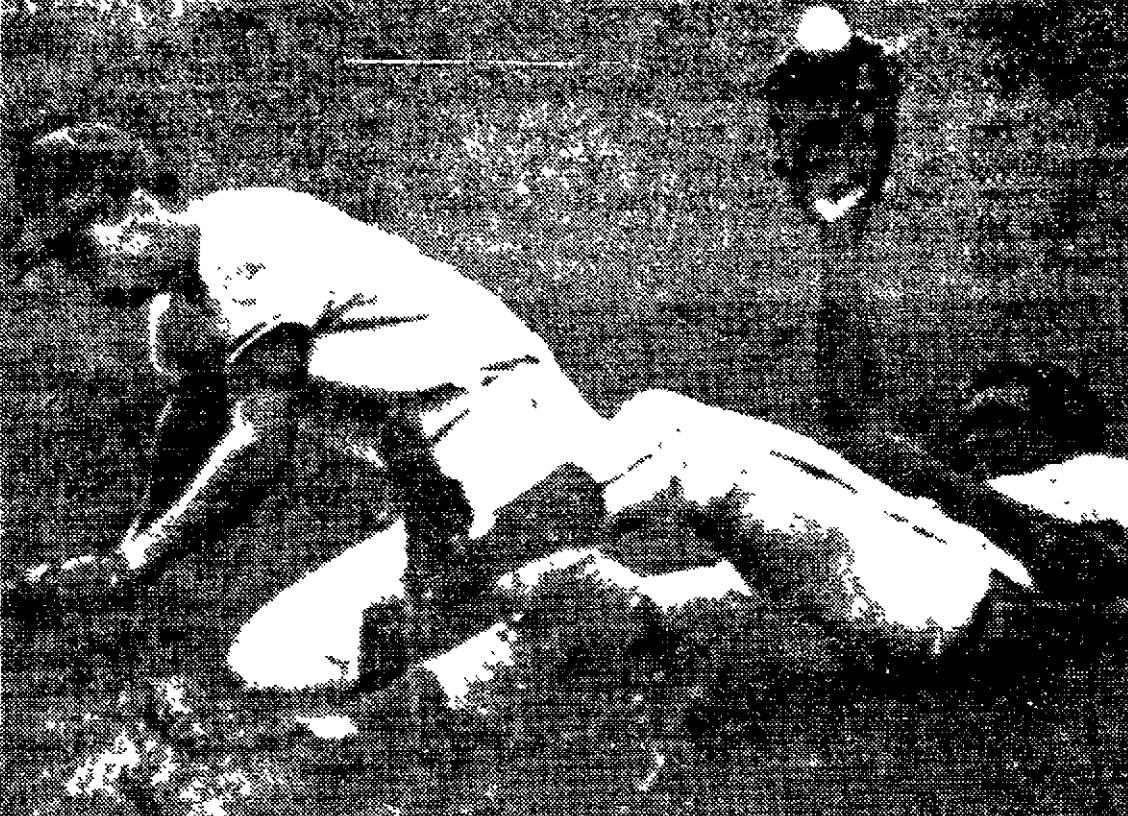

Anyone interested in going is requested to sign up at the popcorn stand at Goodland Field. The bus will be chartered according to how many sign up, but a minimum of 29 is needed before any bus will go. It will leave at 5:15 p.m. Thursday.

The second game will be played Friday night at Goodland Field.

A mutual agreement between Wisconsin Rapids and Appleton has resulted in fixed prices for playoff tickets. The tickets for any place in the grandstand will be $1 on a first-come, first-serve basis. Students will be allowed in at 35 cents and children at 25 cents with the stipulation that students and children may sit with their parents in the grandstand at the 35 and 25-cent prices.

League—Appleton and Wisconsin Rapids — will battle for the ML pennant in a best-of-3 playoff series beginning Thursday in Wisconsin Rapids' Witter Field, the home of the first half champs.

Giants Record First Victory on Fran's Arm, 21-3

By TOM HARRIGAN
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — "It's like beating someone in your own family," said Fran Tarkenton after tossing three touchdown passes Sunday to lead the New York Giants to a 21-3 National Football League exhibition victory over the Minnesota Vikings—his former teammates.

"It was a great thrill, my first win as a Giant," Tarkenton added after going the distance. He indicated no feeling of happiness that Minnesota was the victim of his brilliant afternoon before 43,586 persons in Yale Bowl.

Tarkenton hit 16 of 26 passes for 195 yards as the Giants scored their first victory over a Minnesota team, going back through six years of regular-season and exhibition play.

Allie Sherman, the Giants' coach, had suffered through 1966 with only one regular season victory, and then traded three high draft choices to get Tarkenton.

Disciplined Game

Packers Slim Favorites in Tonight's Tilt

Rematch With the Cowboys Will be Televised Nationally

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

DALLAS — "We're real high about the game."

The nature of this pronouncement, issued in the local press by defensive captain Chuck Howley following the Dallas Cowboys' final major exercise for their long awaited rematch with the Packers here tonight, hardly comes as a surprise.

But it eloquently confirms what the world champions can expect from the vengeful Cowpokes, 34-27 victims in their National League title showdown in the same Cotton Bowl last Jan. 2, in their nationally televised (Channel 2) confrontation. The game will be witnessed by a capacity crowd of 75,504 largely partisan Texans.

Surprisingly enough, Howley discounted vengeance as the Pokes' prime incentive. "There might be some revenge motivation," he admitted, "but that's not the big thing. You've got to beat the Packers—they're the champs of football."

Whatever the case, the indications of a first class imbroglio are evident in the odds for tonight's humid struggle. Favored by two points late last week, the Packers were expected to be narrow, 3½-point choices by game time.

Boisterous Adherents

Cowboy adherents, among the most vocal and boisterous in sports, are convinced, of course, that their Pokes merely ran out of lime in the title game.

Tom Brown's end zone interception of a Don Meredith pass on the final play of the game, it may be remembered, preserved victory — and the championship — for the Pack. Meredith, a supremely confident performer, again will be at the controls in tonight's collision, although he is favoring sore ribs acquired in a 30-24 Dallas victory over the San Francisco 49ers last time out.

Both of the other cowboy quarterbacks, Craig Morton and Jerry Rhome, also are scheduled to see action. Morton, whose performance was termed "very impressive" by Coach Tom Landry, directed the Texans to their winning touchdown in the waning minutes against the 49ers.

Whoever is at the throttle, the Packers will be called upon to cope with the complex Dallas offense, which features a variety

Cracks 1,111 for Five Games in PBA $13,000 Invitational

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Shirley Garms of Chicago recaptured the lead Saturday in the Professional Women's Bowling Association's $13,000 invitational tournament.

Mrs. Garms, who led after the first round, then lost the lead to Lorena Wilcox of Des Moines, Iowa, in the second round Friday night, rolled the best five-game series of the day Saturday, a 1111, to take a 72-pin lead over Miss Wilcox.

Mrs. Garms had only three opens in her five games, all splits, to turn in the 1111. That gave her a 15-game total of 3232. Miss Wilcox faded to a 997 Saturday, including a 173 game, and fell to 3160.

Third was Jeannette Robinson of Flint, Mich., with a 3081 although she could muster only a 971 series Saturday.

Then came Edie Jo Jeal, West Palm Beach, Fla., at 3087; Betty Kuczynski, Chicago, 3060; Bev Ortnier, Galva, Iowa, 3057; and Mary Baker, Chicago, 3004.

Peters Captures Fifth Straight Softball Title

GREEN BAY — Green Bay's 616 Club burned up Fort Howard Park Sunday noon and the sparks that remained around until after midnight never were put out.

That's Larry Sparks, who would more correctly be named: blazes. Eau Claire Peters Meats' pitcher who won four games Sunday in leading his team to an "impossible" fifth straight state softball championship at Fort Howard Park.

Armed with a 30-caliber right arm that fired a steady fare of bullet balls, the rangy Sparks climaxed the 51-game tournament by blitzing 616, 2-0 and 3-1, in the final two games. He allowed only seven hits while striking out 28 and walking two in the 14 final innings that carried Peters into the American Softball Assn. Regional Tournament in Aurora, Ill., this weekend.

Earlier Sunday Sparks had teamed with moundmates Gary Watland and Al Mitchell to help Peters past Eau Claire H and L Men's Shop, 5-2; Green Bay Military Golfland, 8-1, and Menasha Jitter and John's, 13-5.

616 team was supposed to be the fresh team in the finals but miracle work preparing the field squared that situation. And Peters' Amundson appeared as lively and muscular in the last inning of the day as he was in the beginning.

Breaks Tie

It was in that frame, the seventh inning of the second game against 616, that the stocky Peters catcher spanked a long homer over the left field fence with teammate Harv Tomter on base to break a 1-1 deadlock.

But 616 refused to give up as the last of the seventh opened. Gary Wouters lashed a line single to center field as the leadoff man, a blow that gave 616 a 5-4 edge in hits for the game. Sparks, however, was just as determined not to let the crown slip away. He left the frustrated Wouters stranded on first as he struck out pinch hitter Bob Nelson. Dave Gilson and Gary Ponkrat.

Getting past Gilson was probably particularly satisfying for Sparks since the former West High basketball star had drilled a third inning homer to left for the only run off him in the two games. That sock temporarily tied up the game since Amundson, Peters' leading home run hitter for the year, had walloped his first of the game in the second.

Bill Sundell and Fred Fels turned in brilliant pitching performances of their own in containing the murderous Peters attack as well as anyone could be expected to.

As a matter of fact, by some statistical standards, Fels out-pitched Sparks in the final game. He gave up only four hits (though two of them were homers), struck out 12 and didn't issue a walk. Sparks surrendered five hits while fanning 10 and walking one in the finale.

Fels also pitched the last inning of the first game, getting the side in order. But it was the crafty Sundell who held Peters pretty much at bay through the first five innings, giving up only three hits while striking out six and walking one. Sparks, however, was fantastic in that first game as he allowed only two hits, walked one and got 18 of the 21 outs on strikeouts.

Key Single

The one walk Sundell gave up, however, was to the first Peters batter of the game, Ted Sahner. And after a strikeout, Ron Buckl advanced Sahner to second with an infield out. Then Tomter, who had four of Peters' nine hits in the two games, drilled a liner to right for the run. Sparks accounted for the other marker himself when he swatted a homer in the fifth.

In the second game of the day, Military's Tom Lemorande held Peters scoreless for three innings but an explosion of five hits in the fourth led to four runs and Military could do no better than work Watland and Mitchell for three safeties. Watland won that game, the only one Sparks didn't win during his 23 innings of work for the day.

Ken Harrelson Ready to Play For Red Sox

NEW YORK (AP) — Ken Harrelson, recently fired by Kansas City owner Charles O. Finley, is expected to be in uniform for the Boston Red Sox tonight in the opener of a four-game series with the New York Yankees.

Harrelson, who received a reported package deal of $75,000 a year, Waupaca, Dick Oldenberg, to sign with the Red Sox last week, is due to be added to the 25-player roster. He has been on Boston's 40-man protected roster.

To make room for the slug-ging first baseman, the Red Sox reportedly will give outfielder Jim Landis his outright release. Landis, also signed last week as a free agent, is suffering from a leg muscle pull, but will be re-added players.

By putting Harrelson on the active playing list before Sept. 1, the Red Sox make the first Green Bay West High School baseball player eligible for the World Series — if they win the pennant.

Steinhorst, McIntyre Also Win Honors At Fox Valley Legion League Banquet

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY

HOLLANDTOWN — Ken Tappa, who had an 8-2 pitching mark and a 3.03 batting average led Waupaca to the Central Division crown.

Gary McIntyre, Appleton, was the top pitcher in the Central Division with a 7-1 mark. Don Eiring of Fond du Lac paced the Southern circuit with 9.0 and John Berns of Sturgeon Bay was tops in the Northern Division with 6-2.

Rick Schoener, of Marinette, took the Northern Division hitting crown for the third straight year, posting a .412 average. He hit 500 in 1965 and 455 a year ago.

A special award was presented to Dr. Robert E. Herman, of Oshkosh, for his 20 years of work in Legion baseball.

Division championship trophies went to Fond du Lac, Southern; Green Bay West, Northern; and Waupaca, Central.

McCormick Wins 18th Game, Blanks Braves on 5-Hitter

Atlanta Gains Split on 2-Hitter by Three Hurlers; Cards Top Dodgers

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mike McCormick, San Francisco's comeback king, is playing the hitters one at a time. Atlanta's pitching staff is gang-busting up on them.

McCormick became the National League's first 18-game winner Sunday, scattering five hits as San Francisco blanked Atlanta 2-0 in the opener of a doubleheader.

The Braves then bounced back to take the nightcap 4-1 behind Ed Rakow. Ramon Hernandez and Phil Niekro, who teamed up for a masterful two-hitter.

The shutout victory was the second in a row for McCormick, 18-6, who blanked league-leading St. Louis 6-0 last Wednesday and has pitched 24 consecutive scoreless innings.

"I never worry about how tough the teams are I face," said the veteran left-hander, re-acquired by the Giants in trade with the Washington Senators last winter. "I just worry about one batter at a time."

Two Hits in First
Rakow, unbeaten in three decisions since the Braves rescued him from the minors last month, was clipped for two hits and a run in the first inning of the nightcap. He then pitched five hitless innings, walked two Giants with one out in the seventh and was replaced by Hernandez.

Hernandez threw an inning-ending double play pitch and gave away to knuckleballer Niekro, who completed the two-hitter by retiring all six batters he faced.

The Cardinals whipped Los Angeles 6-2; Cincinnati out-slugged Houston 11-8; Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh 2-1 in a rain-shortened 4½ inning game and the Chicago Cubs topped the New York Mets 3-1 in seven innings before rain halted play.

second in the 5-year managing career of Cosmidis. In his first managerial assignment with Salisbury, his team won the Western Carolina League's second half pennant, but lost two straight games in the playoffs. The title follows on the heels of an eighth place finish by the Lexington team, also of the Western Carolina League, that he skipped last year.

Appleton is assured not only of the second half crown but also has captured the top spot in the overall standings holding a 4½-game edge on Quad Cities.

Tonight, the Foxes will send Steve Kokor against Cedar Rapids in the wrap-up game of the 2-game set before second-place Quad Cities comes into town for the final two games of the regular season.

First Win Here
Cedar Rapids' victory last night was the first at Goodland Field this year after five straight losses and was only the third in 13 games with Appleton this year.

The Cardinals tore into four Appleton hurlers for 12 hits in recording the win, while the Foxes could muster only eight off two Cardinal moundsmen.

The Cards grabbed a 4-0 lead in the second inning when they put together four hits and a hit batsman by Appleton starter and loser Ken Frailing for all of their runs.

The Foxes got one of the markers back in the third with two out when "Deacon" Jones singled in Carl Champion who had beaten out an infield hit and gone to second on a walk to Karl Simon.

Cedar Rapids regained its 4-run margin in the fourth on a double by Bob Lanning and a single by Bob Schaefer. The Cardinals added one in the seventh on a single, wild pitch and Duane Freeman's hit to center.

Appleton rallied for two in the eighth. With one out Ortiz hit safely down the right field line, stole second and went to third when the ball got by the second baseman. He scored as Raul Guerrero made a circus catch of Simon's sacrifice fly to right. Jones followed with a towering blast over the right field fence. Roy Radmaker then sent Cedar Rapids' starter Jack Whillock to the showers with a triple off the left field fence, but he died at third.

Cedar Rapids concluded the scoring in the ninth on a double and single by Freeman's sacrifice fly.

Gros to Undergo Surgery on Knee, Out for 6 Weeks
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Full-back Earl Gros of the Pittsburgh Steelers was to undergo surgery today for the removal of knee cartilage, the club said Sunday.

The National Football League club said Gros will be out of action about six weeks, missing two or three regular season games.

Charger Quarterback John Hadl was brought down for a 10-yard loss by Los Angeles defensemen Bruce Anderson on this play in the second quarter of Sunday's exhibition game in San Diego. In the background is the Rams' Bruce Schumacher. The Rams raced to a 43-0 halftime lead and won easily, 50-7.

Establishes Pin Record

Davis Wins Green Bay Open

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Davis won the tournament by 350 pins as he totaled 9,866 for the 40 games. This included 550 bonus pins for winning 11 of his 16 matches in Sunday's play.

Jim Chestney of Denver finished second with 9,516. Chestney moved from 14th place into the runner-up spot as he won 13 of his 16 matches.

The $3,000 first prize collected by Davis raised his earnings for the year to $37,515 and kept him in second place in the money race. Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., remained first with $37,785 as he finished third and got $1,200.

Final standings and earnings after 40 games:

Dave Davis, Phoenix, Ariz., 9,866, $3,000;
Jim Chestney, Denver, Colo., 9,516, $2,500;
Jim Stefanich, Joliet, Ill., 9,413, $2,200;

New Orleans Whips '49ers, 24-10

We Can Beat Anybody, Boasts Confident Fears

BY BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — "I think we can beat anybody," he thought that they were going to get clobbered. They just says Coach Tom Fears of the New Orleans Saints, "I know it's impossible to win which has won three straight all 14 games, or 20 games if you want to count exhibitions, but He didn't stutter or stammer. He was cold sober. There we weren't any ifs, ands or buts. The Saints took a 24-3 half-time lead.

"I told the team that I think we can beat anybody in the National Football League," Fears said today in an interview as he prepared for the final phase of the Saints' summer training. "It was great to see a new team like this against a strong, powerful outfit, which the 49ers are. I think they (the 49ers) are contenders."

But he admitted he expected the Saints to lose their halo when they played the San Francisco 49ers last Saturday night in Portland, Ore. After all, the neophyte NFL team had already won two straight exhibition games — something no other first-year team had ever done.

But the Saints beat the 49ers 24-10.

"They Fooled Me"

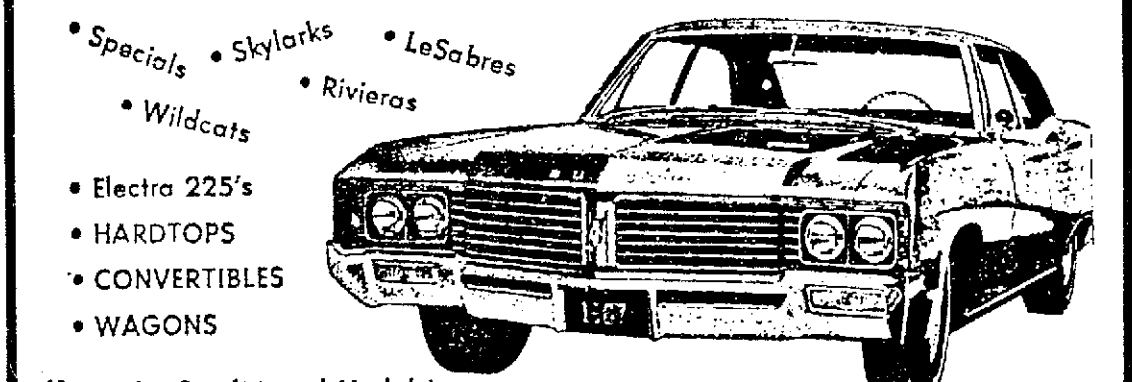

"We had not practiced real well last week and they fooled me," said Fears.

Lions Fumbled Away Loss, Says Schmidt

New Mentor Elated Over Showing of Rookies, Defense

By WHITEY SAWYER

DETROIT (AP) — Coach Joe Schmidt has just 20 days to translate into touchdowns some of the good things he says he saw Saturday night.

The Lions play their final National Football League exhibition game against the Cardinals at St. Louis Sept. 8. Sept. 17 they open at Green Bay against the world champion Packers.

The Lions, hampered last year by a lack of offense, stumbled Saturday night. Baltimore held Detroit to a puny five points and won 14-5.

The only real offensive display the Lions put on this summer was a 38-17 victory over San Diego of the American Football League.

But Schmidt, hired early this year after Harry Gilmer was fired in the wake of a 4-9-1 season, wasn't downhearted after the loss to Baltimore.

"We fumbled the ball," Schmidt said in explaining the loss. "We showed we're a real football team and we're going to be a good football team. The kids hung in there. The defense played well."

"I'm not disappointed a bit. I wanted to win; we played good enough to win, but . . ."

"The team spirit was there. We did a lot of good things."

Convert Fumble

Baltimore turned a fumble by Jim Gibbons on the Detroit 30 into a first-period touchdown. Big Bubba Smith, a former Michigan State star, fell on the ball and John Unitas took the Colts to paydirt in six plays. Tom Matie got the score on a five-yard burst.

A downpour started shortly after that and the two teams struggled through two scoreless periods.

Karl Sweetan, who quarterbacked the second half for Detroit, took the Lions to a first down in the fourth quarter on the Baltimore 12, but Detroit had to settle for a 16-yard field goal by Garo Yepremian. The Lions added a safety when Baltimore had to punt and the ball went over kicker David Lee's head into the end zone.

The Lions took the free kick with less than four minutes to go and drove to a first down on the Baltimore nine, but Bobby Felts fumbled.

rude treatment by the Los Angeles Rams, who crushed the Chargers 50-7 in San Diego.

The Rams of the National Football League intercepted two of Hadl's first-quarter passes and turned them into touchdowns, then forced him to fumble and scored again. By half-time, the Rams led 43-0, causing some caustic appraisal from Charger partisans.

Gave It to Them

"We just gave it to them," Lance Alworth, San Diego's all-star flanker mumbled.

"The worst I've ever seen a pro team play," said Eugene Klein, part owner of the club. "I just don't know. It's unbelievable." The San Diego exhibition record is now 1-3.

Tensi, in the meantime, heaved a 39-yard pass to Neal Sweeney, setting up Denver's first touchdown the first time the Broncos got the football.

Then, in the fourth quarter, after Oakland fought back to a 17-14 edge, Tensi's 42-yard pass to Eric Crabtree put Denver in position for the go-ahead touch down.

In the only other exhibition game Sunday, New York beat Minnesota 21-3 in an NFL game.

On Saturday, Washington of the NFL beat the AFL's Boston 13-7, Pittsburgh took St. Louis 24-13 in the NFL, New York downed Houston 13-7 in the AFL, Baltimore knocked off Detroit 14-5 and New Orleans took San Francisco 24-10, both in the NFL.

Green Bay and Dallas of the NFL meet in a televised contest tonight.

of formations double wing, triple wing, etc. — and a bewildering collection of pass receivers.

Chief among these, of course, is the jet-like Bob Hayes, who spared 64 passes for 13 touchdowns last season. Also "dis-tance" threats are Lance Rentzel, acquired from the Minnesota Vikings in the off season, and Pete Gent, who starred in basketball at Michigan State before being lured into football.

May Miss Game

One of the Cowboys' premier pass-catchers may not be available, however. Tight end Pettis Norman incurred a pulled muscle in Friday's practice and has been listed by Landry as a doubtful participant. As a result, veteran Frank Clarke, who had been transferred to flanker, has been moved back to his old tight the Redskins' victory over the Patriots.

Bill Nelson heaved three touchdown passes for the Steelers, who got their first exhibition victory in beating the Cardinals Dick Compton, Chet Anderson and Roy Jefferson were on the receiving end of the scoring tosses.

Jim Turner kicked two field goals and Emerson Boozer scored a touchdown, leading the Jets to their triumph over the winless Oilers. Joe Namath completed 11 of 14 passes for 110 yards.

He is likely to come from among veteran Elijah Pitts, ex-Los Angeles Ram Ben Wilson or sophomore Jim Grabowski, who started against the Chicagoans.

Expected To Start

Although he suffered bruised ribs when felled by Dick Butkus and also has been troubled by a thumb injury, Bart Starr is expected to be at quarterback on the opening series.

He and his fellow Packers will be seeking their first pre-season victory in the Cotton Bowl since 1964. The then maturing Cowboys triumphed in 1965, 21-12, and again last August, 21-3.

The world champions will be risking a 10-game winning streak, which includes victories in their five final regular season games last year, playoff decisions over the Cowboys and Kansas City in the Super Bowl and three straight wins in pre-season play this year — over the College All Stars (27-0), Pittsburgh Steelers (31-20) and Bears.

PACKER PATTER — Offensive tackle Steve Wright was eleventh hour addition to the Packer travel party Sunday morning. Wright, who is in the midst of a 2-week tour of duty with the army reserve at Camp McCoy was unexpectedly granted a 2-day pass Saturday morning, he arrived in Green Bay at 8— just two hours before the Pack's charter-plane left Austin Straubel Field. "I have to be back before noon Tuesday," Steve reported, explaining, "Normally, reservists are allowed to go home for the weekend on Friday, but I had to stay through Saturday because anything over a 2-day pass is considered leave, and you can't get leave during summer camp. As it was, I had to get somebody to pull guard duty for me Saturday night. That," he grinned, "was the best $15 I ever spent!" Henry (Hank) Gremminger, former defensive captain who now makes his home in Dallas, was on hand to greet the Packers when they checked in at Holiday Inn Central here Sunday afternoon. Bill (Bubba) Forester, another ex-defensive captain, and Dallas resident, also appeared at the Cotton Bowl to renew acquaintances as practice concluded. Shaking hands with Lionel Aldridge, stumping around with his left leg in a cast, Forester quipped, "You've got to play with those little hurts, Lionel!" The Packers will fly out of Love Field immediately after tonight's game and are expected to arrive in Green Bay at approximately 2:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The Only Known Survivors of a group of 18 parachutists who jumped over Lake Erie Sunday talk with reporters after their rescue by a private boat. Bernard Johnson, 30, left, and Robert Coy, 29, both admitted to surprise when they discovered they were over Lake Erie. The jump had been scheduled over a landing field in northern Ohio. 16 Chutists Lost After Jump Over Lake Erie

HURON, Ohio (AP) — Searchers intensified their hunt for 14 sky divers missing in Lake Erie Monday despite rain, blustery winds and choppy waters.

Of the 18 veteran sky divers who made Sunday's ill-fated jump from a converted World War II bomber, only two were known to have survived. Two bodies recovered within half an hour of the off-target jump were being kept in a temporary morgue across the street from city hall. Officials, meanwhile, tried to identify the owners of 9 helmets, 7 gloves, 3 chutes and 4 reserve chutes, the only items recovered from the lake.

Two other sky divers missed the jump by staying on the plane for a second pass at higher altitude.

Comb Lake

Helicopters, planes and an armada of Coast Guard and military and private boats that included the 110-foot ocean-going tug Kaw combed a 100-square-mile area of the lake Monday.

Nine civilian skin divers joined the search, probing the shallow 30- to 40-foot waters of the lake.

Coast Guard Lt. Paul Potter, who saw the multi-colored chutes descend through overcast skies into the lake Sunday at 4:30 p.m., said chances that the 14 missing jumpers survived the night in the 72-degree water were "slim."

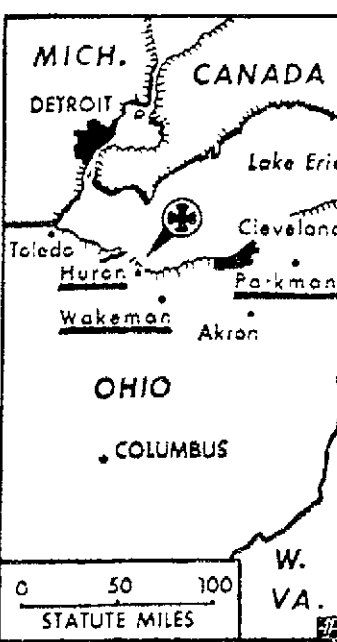

Exactly how the 18 Ohio parachute enthusiasts—most of whom had more than 100 jumps to their credit—missed their target by 10 miles was unknown.

"As far as I knew, I was right where I was supposed to be," the pilot, Robert Karns of Vermilion, told Ohio Highway Patrolman John Shimp.

Radar Fix

10 Marines Killed Today

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist Leatherneck bases in the northern part of South Vietnam followed a series of 12 mortar attacks today, killing 10 U.S. Marines, wounding 106 and destroying or damaging 12 helicopters.

The barrages against two of the bases in the north were launched Sunday which killed or wounded more than 300 persons, most of them civilians.

U.S. officials considered the attacks another Communist effort to scare the South Vietnamese from voting in the presidential election next Sunday. It had been months since the Communists made a coordinated effort like they did Sunday.

American Slain In Korean Attack

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — North Korean soldiers attacked a U.S. army unit in daylight today near the demilitarized zone, killing one American soldier and three others of the U.N. Command and wounding 25 others.

The announcement said some Air Force F4 Phantom and U.S. soldiers were among the F100 Supersabre — went down wounded and other victims were Saturday and only one of the South Korean civilians employed by the American Army.

The attack came between the southern boundary of the zone and the U.N. Command base day at a Marine helicopter air camp, about 550 yards south of the boundary line.

Communist gunners struck to strip near Da Nang and at the Leatherneck base at Dong Ha, seven miles south of the DMZ.

Four Marines were killed, 80 were wounded, three helicopters were destroyed and nine were damaged at the airstrip, military spokesmen said. The attack at Dong Ha killed six Marines and wounded 26, AP Correspondent Robert D. Ohman reported from Da Nang. He said

15 Planes Lost In the air war against North Vietnam, the U.S. Command announced that last week matched the worst previous week for warplane losses, with 15 down over the North. Two planes—an Air Force F4 Phantom and an F100 Supersabre — went down Saturday and only one of the four crewmen aboard was rescued. A total of 22 fliers were reported missing during the week.

'In light of Internal Conditions'

Governors Resolve to Seek Delay in Guard Realignment

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP)—Midwestern governors including Wisconsin's met with their adjutants general today, then issued a statement urging the governments to hold off reorganization of the National Guard.

Citing the guard's performance in recent racial riots, the governors' formal resolution said: "Action on the proposed reorganization should be suspended until re-evaluation of the plan can be properly considered in light of current internal conditions."

The meeting at the Midwestern Governors' Conference was behind closed doors. But comments could be overheard challenging new federal proposals for intensified training of guardsmen to confront racial rioting.

"This is not riot control training; it is combat training, and the public should be informed of that," said one participant.

The governors and adjutants general defended the guard against accusations that troops had been trigger-happy during Detroit rioting that left 43 dead.

Their statement was addressed to the President, the Defense Department and Congress. It was endorsed by 13 governors.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin said the top brass and their bosses planned to discuss "civil disobedience and how to cope with it and how to get troops into action fast."

The National Governors' Conference executive committee, which includes Knowles, pledged its "full faith and confidence" in the Guard at its session here Saturday.

Iowa Gov. Harold E. Hughes

All 14 Aboard Safe as Boston Plane Ditches

SCITUATE, Mass. (AP) — Some swam, others clung to the wing until boats arrived, but within minutes all 14 persons aboard a commercial airliner which ditched Sunday night in the Atlantic stood wet but safe on shore.

The two-engine Lockheed Electra owned by Provincetown-Boston Airlines Inc. was en route from Provincetown, at the tip of Cape Cod, to Boston, 40 miles away, when trouble developed in the right engine.

Pilot Elwood Hallowell, 38, of Naples, Fla., said he ditched the plane after repeated attempts to prevent it from losing altitude. It came down in about 20 feet of calm water 200 yards off a beach 20 miles south of Boston.

Praises Pilot

"The pilot really did a hell of a job," said eyewitness Curtis Schermerhorn, 46, a summer resident of Humarock Beach and police chief in Port Dickinson, N.Y.

"I was in the Army Air Force during World War II," he said. "and I've seen a lot of crashes. This pilot did things perfectly."

Plan Golf Games Between Showers

Fox Cities — Partly cloudy and not so cool tonight, with low near 55 degrees. Tuesday, partly cloudy and warm with a few scattered thundershowers likely in the afternoon or at night, with high near 82 degrees. Southwesterly winds 5-10 miles per hour tonight, increasing Tuesday.

Appleton — Observations for the past 24 hours show high, 73 degrees; low, 50, precipitation, .64 inches. Barometer at 10 a.m. was 30.10 and steady; winds from northwest at 1 m.p.h.; humidity, 56; dew point, 49; skies clear.

Sun sets today at 7:38 p.m., rises tomorrow at 6:12 a.m. Moon rises tonight at 11:29 p.m.

Write Recommendations

Knowles and Michigan Gov. George W. Romney were among the members of a committee asked to write recommendations to curb both racial violence and racial injustice. The report is to be delivered to the full National Governors' Conference in October.

Knowles urged that proposals to improve education, employment and housing in the cities' slums be given priority over the Guard issue during the executive committee talks.

The Wisconsin governor distributed a 19-page report with recommendations for expanded job training, intensified educational programs, and enforced housing improvements.

Making a Free Choice . . . An Analysis

Vietnamese Being Told When, How to Vote

Are South Vietnam's forthcoming presidential elections being rigged by the Saigon military government? Two Associated Press reporters investigated for a week in the northern Mekong Delta, home of more than a million voters. Here is their report.

By PETER ARNETT and KELLY SMITH

TAN AN, Vietnam (AP) — In the thatched-roof villages that line the canals criss-crossing the Mekong Delta, and in the government towns surrounded by barbed wire, the official word—delivered by millions of leaflets, by radio broadcast, loudspeaker announcements and television—is that South Vietnam's presidential election Sept. 3 will be the first opportunity for the Vietnamese people to make a free choice for a government.

American officials in provinces where government officials are openly working for the military ticket are disturbed, particularly because they can do nothing about it.

"We feel the election is very important in the eyes of the Vietnamese, the American people and the world," said one.

"The government could play the game here if they wanted to. They could accommodate our view that the election must be fair. In some areas they are using bullying tactics, and this is making everyone either angry or indifferent to the outcome."

The official was expressing the view of many Americans interviewed in the delta.

There is more voter interest in the presidential election than in any previous elections held in Vietnam.

Increased interest has also been shown by the Viet Cong who are actively trying to sabotage the election by threats, terrorism, and military action.

The great mass of the people appear to know that there is an election coming up, but they have no real grasp of what it means, or who the candidates are.

Ky may get votes, not because of his military record but because his supporters tell farmers in the provinces, "Vote for the man with the mustache." He's the only candidate that has one.

Peasants often believe the election means a handout of food and clothing, because whenever the government information service comes to their hamlet to talk about voting, it brings gifts.

Only about 1 per cent of the 5.8 million registered voters is talking about the election issues, according to an American study, and these are people in

Weather Eases Fight

Pacific Forest Fires Continue Unchecked

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Firefighters in the Pacific Northwest got a break from the weather in the battle with forest fires that have plagued the region for more than two weeks. But at least eight of the 10 largest fires continued to burn uncontrolled today. Cooler temperatures and favorable weather Sunday helped to keep some of them in check.

Widely-scattered rain, some cloud cover and cooler temperatures Sunday helped the more than 9,000 men on the firelines in Idaho, Montana, British Columbia, Washington and Oregon.

Forest officials said the "break in the weather" slowed the progress of the flames, giving crews a chance to strengthen fire lines.

Federal and state officials estimated the rash of fires—kindled in tinder-dry, practically rainless forests in the last two weeks—had blackened nearly 120,000 acres of valuable timber, brush and rangeland.

The cost of putting out the fires hasn't been estimated yet by officials, though it was expected to exceed some $20 million.

Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson is awaiting word from President Johnson on a request that his state be designated a disaster area and federal funds be allocated to help put out the fires on state lands. Samuelson said the holocaust was costing Idaho $150,000 a day in manpower and equipment and state funds had already been depleted.

Valuation Up $212,493 at Stockbridge

10 Per Cent Across The Board Increase Adjustments Made

STOCKBRIDGE — Total assessed valuation of the village is $1,906,088. According to figures tabulated after the recent completion of the Board of Review, valuation is up $212,493 over the previous year.

Assessed valuation of real estate, land and improvements, is $1,653,557 up $189,652; improvements are $1,299,487, up $156,157, and land is $354,070, up $33,495. The number of real estate acres is 1,297 down 13 acres.

Total personal property is assessed at $252,531, up $22,841, of this $120,599 is Class A, up $2,674, and $131,932 Class B, up $20,367.

Across the Board Increase Some of the rise is due to a 10 per cent increase across the board set by village officials. The board levied the increase following the appraisal of property last year by the State Department of Taxation which decided that the assessment was a minimum of 15 per cent too low compared with the equalized valuation. The 10 per cent rate set by the board brings the valuation approximately 95 per cent of true value.

Adjustments Between various assessments, land, improvements, mercantile and agriculture will be made according to state recommendations next year.

Because taxpayers are confusing assessment increase with tax increase village officials wish to make it clear that the increase in assessments may result in a tax rate decrease, although taxes paid would be the same as the past year.

If the rate remains at the present level, taxes would decrease, officials said, although the amount of taxes paid depends on funds needed to operate the village as set in the annual budget in December.

More Ambitious Than Republican Offer

Milwaukee Officials Seek Support For Local-Oriented State Agency

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Officials of metropolitan Milwaukee hope to persuade officials of other principal cities of the state, including those of the Fox Cities, to join them in pressing for a more ambitious state agency devoted to local affairs and development than the Republican state administration proposes.

They also lean toward the Democratic version of such a proposal because it promises more explicit financial aid for urban renewal, blight prevention, low cost housing and other desires of the Milwaukee city administration in the wake of the inner core rioting there recently.

Those were the principal developments here Wednesday as a state Assembly committee heard witnesses testify on a Senate-approved bill to define the duties of the new state agency on local affairs that was authorized in the recent Kellest state government reorganization act.

The idea of a special state department dedicated to assisting local officials with their growing problems has general support. It was endorsed in both political party platforms last fall. At the hearing the concept was favored by The League of Wisconsin Municipalities, the Wisconsin County Boards Association, the director of the local government institute at the University of Wisconsin, the Fox Valley Council of Cities, and the city of Milwaukee, among other groups and interests.

But there will be a partisan division on the question of the powers and responsibilities of the state agency, and more particularly, how much money it should have to provide tangible aid to Milwaukee and others that may want it. That dispute is likely to spill into the 1968 gubernatorial election campaign, as Atty. Gen. Bronson La Follette, the ranking Democrat in the statehouse, made clear in a statement dispatched to the committee through an assistant in his office.

Afflict Other Areas La Follette, generally thought to be running for the Democratic nomination for governor, scoffed at the Republican-sponsored bill as providing local assistance that is more nominal than real. In earlier press releases La Follette had assailed Gov. Knowles for a lack of creative enterprise in dealing with the critical problems of the city of Milwaukee.

Democratic legislators predicted that the Milwaukee problems of blighted districts, inadequate housing and race relations inevitably will afflict other Wisconsin population centers in the future.

Milwaukee spokesmen are aware of the delicate situation they face in dealing with the legislature on the question, and although they indicated obliquely that they like the Democratic version of an urban assistance program by the state, they fell short of opposing the Republican plan.

Richard Glaman, speaking for Milwaukee Mayor Maier, expressed the city administration's belief that the state must join in urban renewal work and low cost housing through a state agency that can help to finance such projects. George Rice, the Milwaukee county corporation counsel, was more direct when he referred to the recent racial rioting in the central city and said that the city must have "considerably more state aid" as he rattled off recommendations for more airport assistance, school subsidies, mental health grants, and others.

Assemblyman David Martin of Neenah, assistant leader of the Assembly GOP majority, endorsed the Senate-approved version of an urban affairs agency, indicating that the Assembly Republican party intends to concur in the measure when the legislature reconvenes in two months.

La Follette's opposition to the Republican bill was transmitted by a young aide, Richard Lehmann, who spoke more moderately than his chief has in press releases. Lehmann said one of the striking weaknesses of the Republican plan is a provision to recruit the chief officers of the new department on a political basis, rather than through civil service channels, which he said endangers objective review of such hotly disputed issues as local annexation and incorporation ordinances.

City Heads Meet in Appleton To Discuss Urban Legislation

Mayors and city managers from 20 Wisconsin cities will press for special legislation to help solve the problems of the five urban centers when they meet in Appleton Sept. 20-21.

Mayor Otto Festge, Madison, president of the Alliance of Cities, announced Thursday in addition to asking the legislature to revise the shared taxes officials would seek legislation to get tax exempt properties on the tax rolls.

Festge wrote Mayor George Buckley and said he expected a large turnout of city officials from throughout the state for the two-day conference at the Conway Motor Hotel.

Appleton, along with Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh, Sheboygan, Manitowoc and Fond du Lac hold membership in the Alliance.

— formed last summer to give cities more of a voice in proposing legislation that affects them.

The Alliance has been successful to date in having the governor appoint a task force, headed by Dr. Curtis Tarr, president of Lawrence University, to study tax distribution formulas and local government operation.

He also discovered that in some states such as Arizona and Colorado, the only office space a legislator has is on the floor of the assembly or senate.

Other Wisconsin state legislators who accompanied Froehlich on the tour included Sen. Holger B. Rasmussen, Spooner, who substituted as Republican floor leader; J. Curtis McKay, Oshkosh, assembly majority floor leader; John C. Shabaz, New Berlin; Sen. Fred A. Risser, Madison, Senate minority leader, and Robert Kordus, Milwaukee.

The goal of the Citizens' Conference on the State Legislatures, an endowed group, is to "strengthen state governments through the strengthening of a state legislatures."

Urban Renewal on Agenda for Brillion

Tonight's City Council Session Will Specify Area; Pick Project Name

In June the city authorized $3,000 to pay for the survey and planning application necessary to seek federal funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Preliminary work on the stalled application is being done by Candeb, Fleissig and Associates, Madison, and representatives of that firm, and city officials expect to meet with HUD officials in September to complete the forms.

In other special session action, Industrial Appraisal Co. was hired to appraise city property for insurance purposes, at an

United Fund to Educate People

LITTLE CHUTE — Five members of the 15-member steering committee for a Heart of the Valley United Fund voted Thursday night to undertake a year of intensive education in an effort to have the fund drive established for October 1968.

No action was taken on articles of incorporation by the committee as no majority was present. Members felt employers would have to be checked to ascertain whether they would go along with the payroll deduction plan for contributing and employees would have to be told of the importance of a United Fund, which would eliminate many individual envelope drives.

Speakers will be available from the steering committee to speak to company unions, service organizations, church groups and others about a United Fund, how it would operate and the benefits of such a method of giving to employees, employers and charitable organizations in the United Fund.

Stunned Officials Comment

$892,300 HUD Water Grant Takes Appleton by Surprise

The announcement Friday that Appleton will get an $892,300 federal grant — and possibly more — for its water expansion program took city officials by surprise.

But they were both elated and grateful after receiving word from the office of U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) who explained in detail what transpired after a meeting earlier in the week with Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) officials.

"A half a loaf is better than none," was the first reaction of Mayor George Buckley when he heard the water project would receive some federal financing.

However, Buckley and others elaborated after it was indicated by a Post-Crescent reporter, who had received a call from Nelson's office, that the money was for a Lake Winnebago pipeline and Sen. Nelson had explained more might be forthcoming for the proposed filtration plant addition.

"I think it's just wonderful," Buckley added. "We have been working hard to get funds for the water expansion because it has a top priority in this community."

Technicians Coming

Buckley was lavish in his praise of Nelson for his direct contact with HUD officials in Washington, and for making arrangements for a team of federal engineers and technicians to come here to inspect the water treatment plant.

He also thanked Rep. John Byrnes (R-Green Bay), who had come here to meet with city officials to discuss the snags which had developed on the city's grant application.

The city originally asked for $1.5 million for the expansion which will include a lake pipeline and addition to the water plant.

While geared for Lake Winnebago at this time, both projects would tie in with Appleton's long-range plans of going to Lake Michigan when other Fox Valley communities are agreeable to forming a cooperative water utility.

Pre-Sentence Probe Ordered

Third Green Bay Man Pleads Guilty To Armed Robbery

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered Thursday afternoon for Carl F. Benishek, 22, Green Bay, who changed his plea to guilty, in Circuit Court, to a charge of armed robbery of the Bulko Service Station, 1608 E. Wisconsin Ave., Appleton.

Benishek, who was ordered held in the county jail until sentencing, became the third Green Bay resident to plead guilty to charges resulting from the July 10 robbery in which $301 was taken.

Clarence Storzer, 17, was sentenced to two years in the state reformatory last week, and Robert Zdiarszek, 18, who pleaded guilty and is awaiting a pre-sentence investigation, is scheduled to be sentenced next Tuesday.

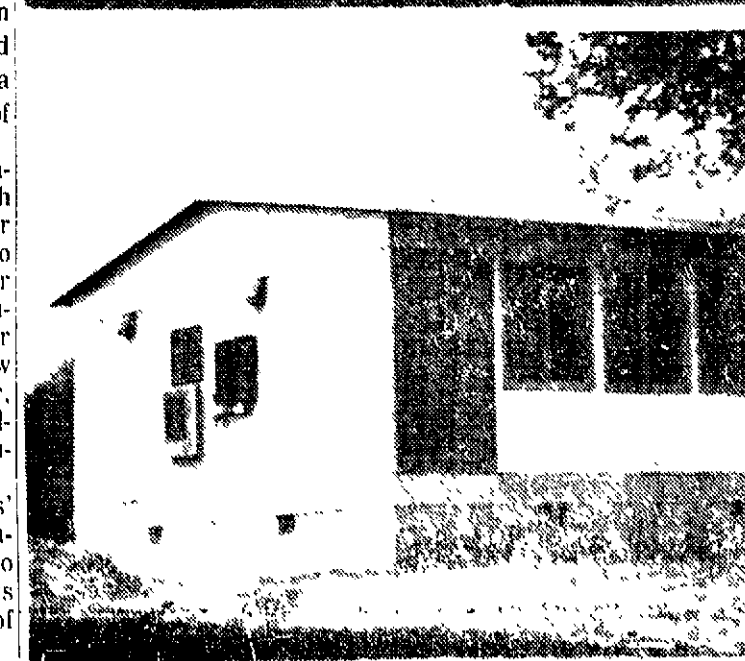

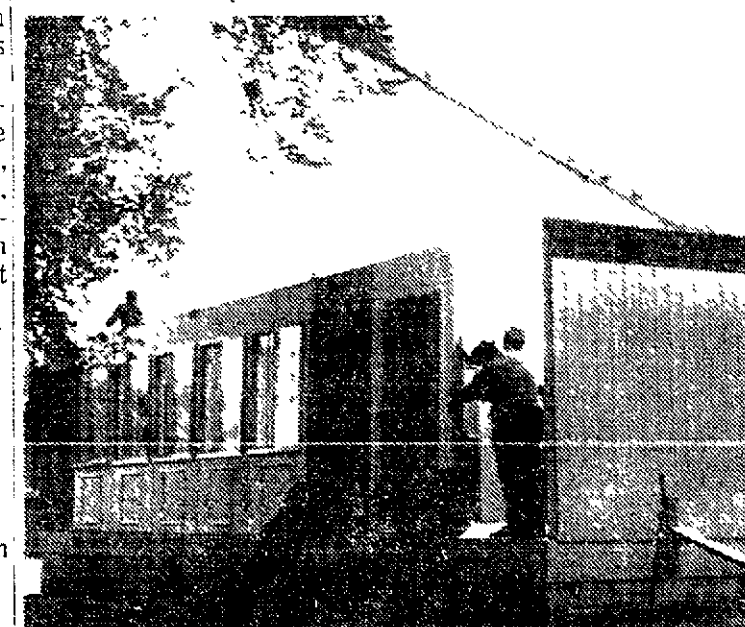

Trial had been set for Sept. 7 for Benishek after the man pleaded innocent July 28. He had a court-appointed attorney, as did Storzer and Zdiarszek.

Carried Chain

Detective Richard Jirschele testified Thursday that Benishek held a "dog-type choker chain" during the 10-30 p.m. armed robbery. One of the youths had a hammer and the other a knife, police said earlier.

A statement Benishek gave Appleton police in the county jail July 15 was admitted into evidence Thursday by Circuit Judge A. W. Parnell. Benishek and his companions were arrested by Indiana State Police a few days after the Appleton robbery.

Benishek told the court he lived in Green Bay with his grandmother. He said he is divorced and worked for a time in Gary, Ind. The Green Bay man said he usually carried a small chain because of a "nervous condition."

Fall Colorama Tour Set By Dayton-Farmington

WAUPACA — Plans are now being made by the Dayton-Farmington Booster Club for a fall Colorama tour and chicken barbecue Sept. 30 and Oct. 1.

The program will include a 60-mile, 90-minute tour of the Chain O' Lakes area and northern Waupaca County.

Committee chairmen already named are Mrs. William Sidor, general chairman, Floyd Taylor, routing; Orin Florence, advertising, and Mrs. Rowland Taylor, barbecue.

A tour route through some of Waupaca County's most colorful areas will be marked prior to the weekend tour. The signs will remain standing for several weeks following the tours to fall Colorama tour and chicken barbecue Sept. 30 and Oct. 1.

One tour is scheduled for Saturday and two free-guided tours will be conducted on Sunday.

New London Coach Looks At Candidates

Prospective Bulldogs Plan Intra-Squad Football Scrimmage

NEW LONDON — Candidates for the 1967 Bulldog football team were given a close look Saturday by coaches in a two-hour intra-squad scrimmage.

A total of 59 sophomores, juniors and seniors took part in the contact drill, the first full scrimmage for the team since workouts began last Monday.

Two-day sessions will end today because of the resumption of school Tuesday.

Shuffle Players

Coach Larry Graves shuffled players in and out of the offensive and defensive units looking for the correct combinations.

Joe St. Marie, a senior back-field candidate, missed the scrimmage because of a sprained wrist he received earlier in the week. Junior Tom Meyer, a backfield hopeful, who twisted, an ankle during scrimmage, was the workout's only victim of combat.

Lettermen expected to form the hub of this year's squad are Greg Wing, Bill Cornell, John Brown, Gary Slosarek, Bill Rieckmann, Gary Markman, Dave Moriarity, Fred Wienandt and Paul Demming.

Workouts will begin after school Tuesday.

Lions Club Will Complete Projects At New London

NEW LONDON — Several work projects will be concluded by the Lions Club at 5 p.m. Tuesday with a 7 p.m. dinner following at Don's Supper Club.

Members whose last names begin with the letters A through L will report to Murphy's gravel pit at U. S. 45 and State 54.

Members whose last names begin with the letters M through W will report to Brown's Beer and Cheese house south of the city on U. S. 45.

Projects to be completed include painting the "Welcome to New London" signs, erecting a man, co-chairmen: Mrs. Owen Gore, Mrs. Alois Huettl, Mrs. County Trunk D south of the Wesley La Fortune, Mrs. Eugene Nelson, Mrs. Robert Pike and Mrs. Duane Sommer.

Assisting the club in planning is Robert Sachttschale, Waupaca County Resource Development agent who has contacted northern Wisconsin communities to learn how they conduct similar events.

Start at Chain

The tours will start in the heart of the Chain O' Lakes area at the Indian Crossing and the harborage which is scheduled to start at 11 a.m. will be held at the Indian Crossing Casino parking 1 p.m. In case of bad weather the barbecue will be held inside the casino dance hall.

Florence said northern Waupaca County Communities will be contacted and it may be possible that there will be stops at one or more of the communities during the tours.

Success of this first Fall Colorama will determine whether or not it will be continued or expanded over several weekends as it is in some northern areas, Florence said.

Motorist Rams House

Waupaca Man Escapes Injury; Car Demolished

WAUPACA — William G. Leupold, 25, Colonial Hotel, was jailed by Waupaca police, on a charge of driving while intoxicated at about 8 p.m. Saturday, after the car he was driving crashed into a house at 1424 Churchill St.

Leupold was traveling west on Apple Tree Lane when his car struck a stop sign at the Churchill Street intersection, crossed Churchill Street, went down a steep embankment and struck the house.

Leupold escaped injury but his car was demolished and extensive damage caused to the porch and house. The house is owned by Lewis Stillman and was being remodeled at the time of the crash.

Car Demolished East of Waupaca

WAUPACA — A car was demolished, and a truck slightly damaged, when the two collided near the intersection of Butternut Ridge and Reek Roads, five miles east of here about 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Waupaca County Police said James Jensen, 32, Smiles Inn Tavern, Neenah, was traveling north on Reek Road when he struck the rear wheels of a dump truck driven by Lewellyn P. Faulks, 45, route 2, Weyauwega. The truck was traveling east on Butternut Ridge Road.

After the crash, the 1957 model car continued across the intersection and rolled over on its right side. Both drivers were uninjured.

Two Cars Damaged In Waupaca Crash

WAUPACA — Damage of more than $150 was estimated in a two-car mishap on W. Fulton Street about 6:45 p.m. Saturday.

Cars involved were driven by Richard DuPuy, 61, 630 W. Fulton St., and Victor Borachuk, 17, Hinsdale, Ill.

Police said DuPuy was backing out of a driveway and struck the Borachuk car which was traveling west on Fulton Street. Both drivers escaped injury.

Official Challenges Claim by Appleton

Grand Chute Clerk Says Town Not Undercharged for Services

Town of Grand Chute officials have taken exception to Appleton's claim that the town is undercharged for services provided by the public school district.

Leslie Woldt, town clerk, said this morning, "We have maintained and outfitted four crossing guards at an annual cost of approximately $3,000."

He added that some of them observe city children crossing Northland Avenue to attend schools in Grand Chute, in addition to assisting town children.

Claim Undercharging

Appleton officials claimed last week that towns attached to the school district are being undercharged for the cost of salaries and equipment for 21 school crossing guards. An advisory opinion the city recently obtained from the Wisconsin League of Municipalities said charging the costs of such guards to the school district was legal and "economically justified."

Total cost of the crossing guard program this year was more than $29,000, according to Appleton officials. Finance Director Henry Shreve has reported the cost of school guards, assessable to towns in the district would be between $4,500 and $8,000.

"Why Pay?"

Woldt countered by saying, "Why should we pay for theirs when Appleton is not helping to pay for ours?" He said he did not know of any town children served by city crossing guards.

"I don't think the city council understands that we pay for our own crossing guards," Woldt added. "May be if they understand the situation they will drop the issue."

The Grand Chute clerk indicated his town, which lies north and west of Appleton, would probably be assessed the most of the four towns which partially lie in the district, if the proposal which some councilmen have proposed is adopted.

Appleton Youth Guilty of Second Beer Charge

WAUPACA — James M. Moriarty, 18, 2544 S. Wood Drive, Appleton, paid fines totaling $250 Saturday for off premise possession of beer and disorderly conduct, when he pleaded guilty to the charges in municipal Justice Court.

Moriarty was arrested at Hartman Creek State Park by Ronald Nelson, park manager, who found the youth along with others drinking beer in the camp grounds. Upon admitting Moriarty to the park, Nelson informed him that it was illegal to have beer in the park. He was arrested at 2:30 a.m.

After his arrest he used profane and abusive language and was charged with disorderly conduct. He was held in county jail until he appeared in court.

In addition to fining Moriarty, Justice George Whalen suspended his driver's license for 45 days. It was Moriarty's second arrest at the park on the same charge since May.

Bussing Begins In Hortonville District Tuesday

Record Number of Children Will Be Transported

HORTONVILLE — School district buses will transport a record 1,556 school age children this year, Supt. George S. Akin reports.

Because of the new state statute on transportation of private school children, some charges in scheduling and routes were made.

Akin said there would be 26 bus routes this year — with bussing of children beginning Tuesday, the first day of school. One bus will be stationed in Mackville for the transportation of parochial students in the district to St. Edwards School, Mackville. Another bus is to be stationed in Greenville for transporting students to St. Mary's School, Greenville.

Pupils at Bethlehem Lutheran School and St. Peter and Paul School, Hortonville, will ride on buses making usual public school runs.

Paul Kreul, in charge of overseeing bus transportation, said the routes would be nearly the same as last year and stops will take place at approximately the same time.

Parents of kindergarten children will receive letters informing them of the pick up time of their youngsters.

'Corn Festival' Ends Tuesday

HORTONVILLE — A free corn roast at 9:30 p.m. Tuesday will conclude the week-long "Corn Festival" sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Entertainment will be furnished by the high school band in a concert and a street dance for teenagers will be held at the parking lot behind Borchardt and Moder Furniture Store.

A drawing for prizes will be conducted during Tuesday's festivities. Registration for prizes is being conducted by participating merchants.

Amherst Has Mobile Home Ordinance

AMHERST — A mobile home ordinance has been passed by the Amherst village board effective Friday. The ordinance states that any house trailer or mobile home in the village limits must be connected to water and sewage utilities. Any trailer or mobile home which has additions, foundation, etc. that equal or exceed 50 per cent of the assessable value of the trailer will be assessed and be put on the village tax roll. All other trailers or mobile homes will require a permit. The village will retain the right to issue or revoke any application.

Men Arrested for Speeding, Racing Appear in Court

WAUPACA — Two Waupaca area men arrested early Friday morning for speeding and racing appeared later in the day in Municipal Justice Court. One was fined $225 and costs. The other pleaded innocent.

Gary E. Schmidt, 20, King, pleaded guilty to speeding 100 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone and was fined $125 plus another $100 for racing. Justice George Whalen also suspended Schmidt's drivers license for 90 days.

Eugene L. Snyder, 22, route 4, Waupaca pleaded innocent to both charges and a trial was set for 10 a.m. Sept. 1. He was released after posting a $550 property bond.

Both men were arrested about 1 a.m. Friday by County Traffic Patrolman John Bonnell who followed the two from a King area tavern to the west exit of the U.S. 10 bypass where they stopped side by side and then raced east on U.S. 10, according to Bonnell. Bonnell reported he chased the two cars for more than three miles before they stopped.

Buelow, grade three Mrs. Agnes Seybold, four and Mrs. Harold Pacis, third. Returning lay Hoffman teachers will be Mrs. Louis, will teach half days.

Does the SNCC Have Red Ties?

Generally we are skeptical of charges that various organizations, especially those involved with civil rights, are Communist led or inspired. Too often the Commie charges are merely excuses for non support of changes that should be made but may pinch old prejudices or interfere with discriminatory economic habits.

But the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee has perhaps inadvertently revealed its Red ties.

Originally an organization to fight racial discrimination, SNCC has lately been promoting guerrilla warfare in urban ghettos. One of its leaders, Stokely Carmichael, went off to Cuba to lend a loud voice to Fidel Castro's claims that the problems of American cities are part of a world-wide American plot for white supremacy and imperialism.

But then SNCC publications began to adopt an anti-Semitic line that was a direct result of the Soviet Union's backing of the Arab countries in the June Middle East war.

'I' System Over Half Complete

More than 24,000 miles of the authorized 41,000 miles of the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways are now open to traffic and construction is going forward on nearly 6,000 additional miles, says the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Those Wisconsin travelers and vacationers who have used these superb roads in their motoring outside the state, and those sections within Wisconsin that have been completed, have learned about the pleasure and efficiency they provide. It has been truly said that this enormous public works effort compares with anything any country has ever attempted, and probably ranks with the immensity of the road building record of the ancient empire of Rome.

But some observant Wisconsin travelers may also reflect, as the National Interstate System is pushed toward completion, about the niggardly treatment received by Wisconsin when the original apportionment of mileage and strategic routes was worked out by the national government half a dozen years ago.

Wisconsin was apportioned about 450 miles, including admittedly vital expressway sections in metropolitan Milwaukee,

Harry Golden, North Carolina editor and author, resigned from SNCC because "of the increasing use of anti-Semitism and their echoing the ideas found in the Ku Klux Klan and the American Nazi Party." Referring to SNCC's monthly bulletin, Golden said that "the cartoons in the newsletter are obscene and this comes in ill grace from an organization from which two Jewish boys, Schwerner and Goodman, along with Mississippi Negro Cheney were murdered during field work for SNCC." The folk singer, Theodore Bikel, has also resigned from the organization for the same reasons.

The adoption of the Communist line, regardless of what it means, recalls the days of the Nazi-Soviet pact when Communist publications around the world had to change allegiances and charges by a full 360 degrees. It is ironic indeed that an organization supposedly struggling for an end to discrimination, now adopts an anti-Semitic point of view and expects its membership to fall in line.

the heavily used route between Madison and Milwaukee, and the major corridor between Chicago and the Twin Cities of Minnesota that traverses our state from southeast to northwest.

Proposals for a travel corridor in eastern Wisconsin to link Milwaukee and Chicago with the Fox River Valley, the state's second most important population center and industrial district, and beyond into upper Wisconsin were ignored. As a result, the state has been required to rely upon its own limited resources and overtaxed annual highway budget for staggered improvements, in contrast to the long segments made possible in Interstate route construction through the 90 per cent federal financing arrangement.

The 1965 legislature authorized a bonding program for the acceleration of the construction on the remaining segments of "I" highways in Wisconsin. The validity of that enactment will be tested in a case to be tried in the state supreme court this fall. We believe the acceleration plan is a good one, if only because it will permit the state highway administration to attend to other Wisconsin major road needs at an earlier time than would otherwise be likely.

What Are the Russians Doing in Nigeria?

The United States Government seems to have learned a lesson of sorts from Congressional and other protests over Pentagon arms sales abroad. It has maintained a strict hands-off policy toward the civil war in Nigeria. But the same cannot be said for the Soviet Union.

Strangely enough Russia has been giving arms assistance to the Nigerian Federal Government. At least six disassembled Czechoslovak Delfin L-29 jet trainers have been delivered and it is reported that they were bought for cash. But Representative Joseph Resnick of New York, recently returned from Nigeria, reported that Russia was furnishing all sorts of arms and ammunition to the Nigerian government on a grant basis. The rebel Ibos claim that more than 150 Russian or East European military technicians and pilot instructors have also been flown to Nigeria but this is disputed by other sources.

The Nationalist, daily newspaper of the socialist Tanzania government, has criticized the Russian arms shipments to Nigeria.

Communist tactics in underdeveloped countries have often been merely to keep tensions high and chaos likely. The Soviet Union criticized the American assistance to the Congo Government when the rebels were Red inspired but it has kept fairly quiet now that the rebels are white mercenaries and Katangese. By sending assistance to the Nigerian government, Russia almost seems to be doing the same sort of thing the United States did in the Congo, aiming at maintaining a legitimate regime in power with little attention to ideology.

The rights and wrongs in Nigeria are not easy to assess. The civil war is primarily a tribal and religious conflict. The Soviet Union is doing no one any good by backing one side against the other.

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 10, 1867.

On Wednesday last, two burglars landed from the 8:37 p.m. train, went to a restaurant and got supper, and then about 11 p.m. broke into F. & C. Pfennig's Flouring Mill and attempted to open a moneyless safe in which the books are kept.

Some noise disturbed them so they left hurriedly. They were seen by a mill hand, who hurried to give the alarm, when they fled. Undersheriff McGrath was speedily aroused and with the Messrs. Pfennig hurried down town.

Sheriff White soon made his appearance. The fellows were found near the American Express office, evidently bent on appropriating Mr. Racine's jewelry.

They started to run: Sheriff White ordered them to stop. One ran one way, the other ran the other. McGrath went after one, White after the other.

Mc soon was distanced, his bird flew northwardly. Sheriff White began firing his gun at his quarry and after the fellow scampered around Oneida Street into the alley back of Foster's Drug Store, he jumped the fence at Malone's lot, where he hastily tried to draw his revolver. George drew his and winged him, wounding him severely in the side, and then jumped on and secured him.

Dr. Reeve extracted the ball and the fellow was to undergo an examination yesterday if well enough.

The next morning, Capt. Turner picked up a revolver and cold chisel on the lot where the burglar dropped it. He claimed to have come from Watertown.

We understand that a vigilante committee hereafter will assist in catching the thieves and burglars who visit Appleton.

South Africa Plans To Wipe Out Killer Sharks as Danger

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Killer sharks must be attacked and wiped out, says a South African expert.

Merely taking protective measures against them is a defeatist attitude, according to Prof. J.L.B. Smith after years of studying sharks.

The first reaction in South Africa to fierce wild animals, such as lions, had been to build enclosures which they could not penetrate, he said. Long and bitter experience had proved, however, that real security was attained only by ruthlessly wiping out any of these animals that intruded where man lived.

"We must seek some methods by which the shark can be eliminated as a danger."

Mrs. Abraham Sigman was to represent the Appleton League of Women Voters at the general council meeting of the Wisconsin League in Madison.

Ten boats from Appleton took part in the maneuvers of the Coast Guard Auxiliary at Oshkosh. They were captained by George E. Johnson, Harold Grossman, Edwin Hoerschel, Robert Ebben, Dr. A. Lester Koch, Thorsten Johnson, C. A. Fourness, Andrew Forester, Elmer Knoke and Lawrence Konz.

About 1,000 persons gathered in the field near Ballard Road to watch the model plane show and competition. Dr. Al Lehman won the radio-controlled event. James Grist, Appleton, coming in second, and Bob Breitenfeldt, also from Appleton, third. Douglas Rhode won the rat race with Clyde Schley Forest Junction second, and Tom Jansson, Appleton, fourth.

Tom Whitman won the tennis title in the Kaukauna Recreation Department championship tournament. Runner-up for the championship was Joe Lamers. Consolation champion was Tom Schermitzler, who defeated Dave Lindemuth.

18 Million Tourists Visiting Spain This Year, Nation of Only 31 Million

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

SEVILLE, Spain — There's a saying here that tourists are like the poor, they're always with us. This year at least 18 million of them will visit this lovely land with a population of only 31 million. In our country the equivalent would be an influx of 114 million foreigners. The economic impact is enormous.

It is sometimes claimed that no one can understand the economy of Spain, Portugal, Italy or Greece who does not know the importance of olive oil. Tourism's importance has superseded the staple three-to-one.

A record 17.2 million visitors came to Spain last year; 21 per cent more than in 1965 and a 530 per cent increase in 10 years. Tourist facilities can accommodate 850,000 at a time and hotels keep going up, automobile was made in Spain. Today the tough little Spanish-built SEAT and Spanish-built Citroens, Renaults and Volkswagens have put millions on wheels. The centrifugal force of this is not only felt in the traffic but strongly felt in the economy and thus in the social structure as well.

Mainly because of Franco and his Axis ties, Spain was excluded from the Marshall Plan and received nothing from it. In addition, Moscow held (and still holds) 513 tons of Spanish government gold, sequestered by Soviet planes during Spain's civil war. But, as I indicated in a previous article from Madrid, 1959 was the true nadir.

The miracle of the West German recovery is widely known and, in wonder, the German economists themselves call it the "Wirtschaftswunder." Spain's recovery lacks such badges of lionhood and yet it is relatively equivalent — topped off most recently by her loan of millions in U.S. currency, with more to come, to the Alliance for Progress programs in Latin America.

1959 MARKED TURN

Internal economic reforms made in 1959 mark the turn. These encouraged internal investment. Money long overseas began to come back. The capital confidence grew. Important expansions occurred in shipbuilding, textiles, minerals, chemicals, canned foods, furniture, electrical and transportation equipment, etc. Spain showed an annual 11 to 15 per cent rise in industrial output.

Then the great marginal difference occurred in tourism's leap, led by the Americans; our powerful pouring of hundreds of millions of dollars for immense military facilities, plus the manning of these; and, finally, Spain's own streamlining of her bureaucracy in which everything was tied up with enough red tape to wrap a mummy.

On the brink of bankruptcy in mid-1959, this country's reserves showed them, net, a $4 million deficit. Spain had a bare $63 million in gold and hard currencies; $67 million in debts.

By 1962, within three years, her peseta was singled out by London's Financial Times as having the year's best record for stability. And today what was a $4 million deficit in her reserves has been changed to a surplus of $1.5 billion. It is the softer and softer dollar that is questioned now in Spain, not the peseta.

Even in this always-poor country they're doing better with only their bootstraps than are our Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink.

Taylor

especially along seashores and in this charming region where the rich, ripe rhetoric of old Spain flowers, a holdover from Cervantes and Lope de Vega. But many Spanish claim the hardest thing to find is a Spaniard.

HONK REPLACES HUSH

In Merida, where Julius Caesar once ruled as governor general, or on Pamplona's street of the Thousand Broken Heads where Ignatius Loyola received the wound that turned his steps and reflections toward sainthood, life was lived in a hush. All you heard were the tiny burros clip-clopping on Spain's old stones. Today a honk has largely replaced the hush.

Years ago Spanish bull breeders gave banquets in their private bull rings. A trumpet sounded and the toril gate swung open. Out trotted a fighting bull. The great animal would circle the table, looking and waiting for someone to move. It's hard to hold a glass of wine an inch from your lips, steady, and stare at the swaying horns. The first man who boited lost the game. Today in downtown Madrid or Barcelona the name of the game is motoring.

Even as late as 1960 not an

Knowles Enters His 60th Year With Zest For Governor's Job

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The state agency head remarked to a reporter friend as the silver-haired man at the head of the big table prepared to call a session of the State Building Commission to order.

"Considering the pace he sets, he looks well, doesn't he?"

Wyngaard

I was forced to agree. Having observed a dozen Wisconsin chief executives during my time as a statehouse correspondent, I can say without qualification that Warren P. Knowles gets more satisfaction out of a swiftly paced and trying work schedule than any of his predecessors I have known. Sometimes, indeed, Knowles' friends have been heard to worry about the frantic daily calendar of his activities, remembering that he is now well into middle age and approaching that time when contemporaries in business and the professions tend to guard their leisure and conserve their energies, typically upon the counsel of their physicians.

Yet to all outward appearances Warren Knowles as he enters his 60th year is in magnificent health. Young reporters who occasionally trail along with him on his speaking trips, campaigns, or tours of such events as the state fair, cheerfully admit that they return to their offices fatigued. Knowles scarcely shows the exertion.

REFRESHED BY WORK

Like almost all politicians who respect their work and like it, Knowles seems to draw refreshment out of the experience of incessant traveling within the state and the daily contact with hundreds and even thousands of his constituents. Moreover, he is studiously careful about matters of diet and other elementary matters relating to his health. Wisconsin has had governors who were "night people," as an other correspondent aptly described another recent state executive. Knowles is not one of them. His staff has strict orders to arrange his schedule in such a way that he can return to his home in mid-evening for a full night of rest.

The result is that he arrives at his executive office desk at an earlier time each morning than has the typical governor of Wisconsin, dictates correspondence and memoranda by the ream, reads staff reports and is able on any representative day to spare time for an airplane flight to a speaking engagement or two.

During the governor's first term there was some mild remonstrance in his own circle about the ardent schedule of his extra-curricular activities. There was also some criticism from quarters not altogether familiar with the fact that Knowles spends very little time on ordinary leisure time activities or social engagements. As a result he can afford a rigorous stumping program without sacrificing office duty time to any significant extent.

ACCESSIBLE TO CALLERS

In point of fact, Knowles is probably more accessible to callers at the Capitol than have been most of the governors of the last generation.

Nevertheless, when his second term began last January, he assured solicitous friends, advisors and his own staff that he intended to reduce the pressure of his outside speaking and ceremonial schedule. He did so, for most of the weeks that the legislature was in session. But he was clearly restless on some of those days, and resumed his stumping on weekends. When the legislature recessed, the basic instinct for getting out among the people could no longer be suppressed. Often Knowles will over-ride the decision of an office subordinate that he is too busy to take on another engagement on a particular day.

In statehouse political speculations, a major topic is the direction of the governor's candidacy next year — third term, or U.S. Senate. Probably the joy with which he handles his present job provides the most important clue. How can you stump Wisconsin from Washington?

What's Happened With Girl's Names?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Lying on the beach and listening to the young girls chattering among themselves, I wondered vaguely what had happened to the old-fashioned girls' names we used to carve on trees.

All I heard around me were Cindy and Lindy and Mindy.

Harris

And Candy. So many Candys, in fact, that the name will soon have to be subdivided into Peppermint, Licorice, and Bon Bon.

There were Hilary, and Hoki, and Holly.

And Alison, and Alden, and Alexandra, and Adair.

Morgan and Kelly, Lindsay and Shelley.

There was even a girl named Folly. But no a single old-time Molly or Polly or Dolly.

A Cary, but nary a Mary. No Jane, Jean, Joan, or June.

Two Bretts and a Harper A Kerry and a Kiki.

A Bunny, a Buffy, a Ricky, and a Muffy.

Three Laurens, an Antonia, and a Jody. Even a Sam Sam? Whatever happened to the girls I used to see when I was a lad?

Mary Jane, Rose Edith Gertrude, Florence Eleanor. There wasn't a single Helen on the beach. Or a Doris. Or a Louise. Or a Ruth.

Those names are "out" for the new generation. If you're a girl, you don't get a girl-name any more. You get a family name — even if it isn't your own family.

Or you get a boy's name — or at least a bisexual one. Or a nickname that isn't nick at all, but for real. Like "Nicki."

which doesn't stand for "Nicole," but just stands for itself.

Or even dogs' names — like Pepper, and Sandy, and Toto. Any day now, I expect to hear one girl calling another "Spot."

Boys' names run in cycles, too, but at least they remain recognizably boyish. The Johns and Joes and Toms and Dicks of my day have been largely replaced by Michaels and Pelters and Christophers and Davids and Adams — but they're still masculine names.

You don't see little boys running around calling each other Trig or Trek or Brek or Spamsy. They'd run away from home before they'd allow that to be done to them.

Shucks, even Sydney is a better name for a girl than most of what's around today. As far as I'm concerned, it's a bet n't m eaefig arahiofno better name for a girl than for a boy.

Indians to Dig Up Capsule in 2068

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) —In the year 2068, members of the Navajo Tribe will unearth two 5x15 foot time Rock and discover artifacts of the Indians of the 1960's and 1860's.

The capsules, loaded with over 80 different items, were buried Memorial Day to commemorate the Indian treaty of 1868.

When the Navajo tribal leaders of the future dig into the ground, they will find artifacts ranging from a ceremonial mask to a baseball glove, Indian pants to a wine bottle, and Navajo mocassins to a set of dentures.

The future tribal leaders will, also hear, on tape, the voice of Raymond Nakai, tribal chairman, as well as Graham Holmes, area director for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Carroll Bistui, a St. Michaels High School student, selection of contemporary music, and John F. Kennedy's Inaugural Address.

Johnson Says 'More,' But Results Negligible

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — What's the answer?

The Johnson administration seems to think it has the answer. More of the same. But the results so far haven't proved as inevitable that the only way to fight this war is within the territory of South Vietnam, and far tougher, bombing of the North.

"Must we," he asked, "accept all-out bombing—or to precipitate a bigger war but to curb the flow of men and supplies from North Vietnam into South Vietnam."

He said the objective is not to invade or destroy North Vietnam—invasion might bring Red China into the war and so might all-out bombing—or to precipitate a bigger war but to curb the flow of men and supplies from North Vietnam into South Vietnam.

Attack Communication Lines

"This requires that the air attacks be directed primarily against the military lines of communication. They are."

"It is true that there are restraints on the bombing but they are restraints designed to save American lives, to avoid unnecessary devastation and civilian casualties in North Vietnam and to avoid action which carries with it the high risk of widening the war with all that implies."

But shortly after Ford spoke his piece, and as if in answer to his demands, President Johnson ordered the bombing stepped up. But when some bombs were dropped within 10 miles of Red China's frontier, this caused more protests.

Not Yet Struck

Then Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, U.S. commander in the Pacific, had a few words to say: That many important and worthwhile targets with military significance have not yet been struck.

Then McNamara with a lengthy and highly detailed explanation went before a congressional committee to state the administration's case. He said the purpose of the air campaign was to reduce—or increase the cost of—the continuing flow of men and supplies from North to South, boost South Vietnam's morale and let the North know there was a price tag on its continued aggression.

Complete Cutoff Impossible

But, he said, it has never been considered possible to shut off supplies from the North completely. The reason: The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in South Vietnam, aside from food, need no more than about 100 tons of supplies a day, and only a few trucks are needed to transport that much.

McNamara, answering complaints like Ford's that the bombing is too limited, said about 85 per cent of all the targets in the North recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff have been hit.

He added: "Enemy operations in the South cannot, on the basis of any reports I have seen, be stopped by air bombardment" unless North Vietnam and its people are annihilated. And he said no one has proposed that kind of indiscriminate bombing. Sunday Ford said he didn't, either.

All of which means the war—since the U.S. forces in the South seem to be just holding their own and not crushing the enemy—isn't any closer to being won than it was in the beginning and may go on indefinitely.

This is the administration answer, given through Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. North Vietnam eventually can be convinced its attempt to grab South Vietnam is hopeless if this country continues fighting the war the way it's been doing.

But the way it's been going costs lives and doing some damage to the North with U.S. bombing, apparently hasn't put a dent in the determination of the North Vietnamese to keep on fighting.

Tuesday Could Bring Change in Mississippi

William Winter Given Slight Chance To Win in Primary Runoff for Governor

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK LAUREL, Miss. — The enthusiastic response given to William Winter's oratory the other night at an all-white rally here in the heart of Ku Klux Klan country is one of many hints that a near-miracle could be in prospect for Mississippi politics. It is red-neck rural whites like those that filled the fairgrounds bleachers here for Winter's rally who harbor racist sentiments, join the KKK, and elect governors of Mississippi. It had been presumed that they would give Representative John Bell Williams, the arch-segregationist Congressman and Goldwater Democrat, an easy triumph over state treasurer Winter in Tuesday's Democratic primary runoff for governor.

Looks Like Contest

But highly reliable private polls show that Winter has been pulling enough of the white rural vote away from Williams to make it a contest going into the campaign's final days. One such poll shows Williams and Winter exactly even with an unusually large undecided vote of 12 per cent.

Thus, Mississippi faces its closest election in a generation and more important, a cross-roads. A Williams victory would continue Mississippi's losing rear-guard action against the federal government, almost surely regressing from the cautious progress under Governor Paul Johnson the last four years. An upset by Winter would be a giant step by Mississippi toward reconciliation with the rest of the country and perhaps even toward racial harmony here.

Generation Younger

Actually, William Winter is no liberal. Pledged to oppose Lyndon B. Johnson and support George Wallace for president in 1968, he has no contact with Negro leaders or voters to act otherwise would be suicidal in Mississippi today. Nevertheless, labor and Negro leaders here are so upset by Winter's stand that they are contemplating sitting home Tuesday because they do not see enough difference between the candidates. But there is a difference. In both campaign technique and content Winter, 44, seems a full generation younger than Williams, 48. Williams tells court house square rallies that the only issue is whether Mississippi will surrender its birthright to Lyndon Baines Johnson and the Great Society with William Winter" and cuts Winter to shreds in the old Bilbo tradition.

While establishing his anti-LBJ credentials in every speech, Winter has increasingly ignored Williams and talked instead about problem-solving in roads, schools and other state questions.

This issue-oriented approach long ago captured for Winter the urban and middle-class vote — in brief, the Mississippi establishment. That was enough to bring him home ahead in the first primary election.

But the decisive rural segregationist vote was divided up by second-running Williams, a mid-die-aged hillbilly singer named Jimmy Swan who came out of nowhere to run third, and former Governor Ross Barnett who ran a surprisingly poor fourth. Williams was expected to collect the Swan-Barnett vote and beat Winter easily.

Cut Into Rural Vote

The fact that Winter has cut into this rural vote which habitually goes to the loudest segregationist can be explained partly by Williams's tactical error in needlessly attacking Barnett in the closing weeks of the first primary campaign, alienating the Barnett camp. Moreover, Winter's abstinence from alcohol and reputation as a prominent Presbyterian layman goes over well in Bible-reading teetotaling rural Mississippi.

But there may be a deeper reason. While Williams gives the old Mississippi battlecry of "John Bell Williams will never apologize for Mississippi," Winter suggests cautiously that things might be better here — and that particularly goes for Mississippi's tarnished image. He seems to be hitting the right mood for Mississippi in 1967.

During the rally in Laurel for instance, Winter got his strongest cheer for advocating that more money be spent to improve Mississippi's notoriously poor public schools. "I say we can't afford not to have quality education in the state of Mississippi, and we're going to get it in the Winter administration!" Even Winter's supporters here were amazed by the favorable reaction.

There is no doubt Williams is worried about defections in his rural vote. Traveling in his bus from one courthouse square to

The Law and You Carpeting Usually Deemed Furniture, Not Fixture

Suppose you lease a house or apartment in several rooms where the carpeting was laid, at your own expense. Later, when you move out, can you take the carpeting if it were removed with you? Or must you leave it for the landlord, on the grounds that it has become a fixture?

In the usual circumstance, the carpeting would most likely be deemed to be furniture and not a fixture. This means that you cannot be considered fixtures.

Suppose, however, that John and Phil are neighbors and John decides to build a fence. In so doing, he, by mistake, builds it on Phil's land, or does not have an agreement with Phil that he can take the fence down. After discovering the mistake, John decides to take the fence down. But, he cannot do this, as the Wisconsin Supreme Court has ruled that the fence belongs to the owner of the land on which it is built, even though it was built there by mistake.

However, there would be many circumstances where the carpeting would be considered a fixture and would have to be left on the premises.

another. Williams paints Winter as a friend of the Negro, an ally of President Johnson, and a supporter of the liberal establishment and "the socialists in Washington."

Chances are they will heed Williams's advice and follow ancient prejudices when they enter the polling booth. But the possibility that they won't is what makes Tuesday a day of profound importance, for Mississippi and the entire Deep South.

Canadians Find Food Shortages, Inhuman Major on Tour of U.S.S.R.

By JOE MCGOWAN JR.
Associated Press Writer
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A Canadian couple has completed a rigorous drive with their two children the length of the Soviet Union. They report food shortages everywhere except in Moscow.

What food they did find was extremely expensive, according to Simon and Christine Feldman. Their biggest complaint was against a Russian major at a town near the Iran border, whose actions made the Feldmans and their sons—11 and 5—go without food for 24 hours, Feldman says. "This is one thing I'll never forget or forgive them for."

The Feldmans are making a round-the-world trip in a self-contained camper truck made in Britain.

Trotting Circuit
Feldman says in 1963 he retired early from his dressmaking business in Montreal and moved to Miami Beach. He also had trotting horses and toured the circuit with them during season, under the Gallahad Farms Colors.

In 1966 they decided to see the world. They started in France and drove south through Europe to Israel, Syria and Jordan. Then they went through Turkey, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Poland, East Germany and into Scandinavia. They entered Russia at Vyborg, on the Finnish border and drove 3,000 miles through the Soviet Union in 30 days. From there they crossed Afghanistan and Pakistan, and from New Delhi were going south to Madras and a ferry trip to Ceylon. They plan to visit Thailand, Malaysia, and maybe Australia, before sailing to Mexico for a winter's stay. Eventually they hope to settle in the San Francisco Bay area.

Terrible Roads
"When you travel overland in the Soviet Union you are supposed to stay each night at the tourist camps," Feldman says. "But the roads are so bad it takes about 18 hours from one camp to another—yet you are not supposed to travel after dark. We did, and no one ever stopped us."

"The only place we found with enough food was the Dollar Shop in Moscow. Food was much cheaper there also. Other places tomatoes were 75 cents a pound and cherries $1.50 a pound, for instance. Potatoes just weren't available, and the meat looked like it had been chewed by animals."

Police stopped him several times and demanded ruble fines for illegal parking, speeding or illegal passing. Each time he demanded to be shown the traffic sign concerned and when they could not show it, he refused, successfully, to pay the fines.

Lots of Drunks
"Everywhere in the Soviet Union we saw a lot of drunks on the streets," Feldman said. "It is one of the things that stands out most in our minds."

"Also, the farther south we went, the dirtier the camps got. "Trucks were broken down all along the highway. If you picked up all the parts you see along the road you could build your own truck, I think."

Feldman said he was told he could not drive the last short leg from Yerevan to the Iranian border "presumably so we would not see their border defenses." They and the van would have to go by train to the border.

They had supper at Yerevan and boarded the train after dark. It arrived at Daulf at 1 a.m., but they slept in their compartment until 7 a.m.

No Dining Car
"Then there was a knock at the door and it was the Russian major and two customs officers. They wanted to see our documents. We showed them and then asked where to find the dining car. We were told there was none."

The Feldmans went into the station to find some food but there was no way to change their money for rubles. "The major came back at 2 p.m. and just grunted when we told him we needed something to eat. He left without doing anything. Finally at 4:30 p.m., a Bulgarian chap gave us a loaf of bread," said Mrs. Feldman, who has kept a log of their journey.

Their van, sealed and placed on a flatcar in a separate train, did not arrive until evening. They knew they had food in the van so asked various people for permission to enter it.

"We were told we could not, but finally I went to it, broke the seal and we all climbed in and had supper," Feldman says.

Everything Examined
"At 8:30 p.m. the major returned with two customs men, a soldier and an interpreter. They went through everything, and even examined our playing cards one by one."

"Then the major ordered us out and I refused. He said everything would have to be inspected again in the morning before we crossed the border and I said that was okay. But they kept shunting the flatcar all night. It was bam, bam—we couldn't sleep."

The major returned at 11:15 a.m. next day and the customs men went through all their possessions. Then the van was resealed and the Feldmans and a group of Bulgarian mountain climbers were taken to the border in Jeeps.

"We had to walk in the heat one-fourth mile from the last police outpost to a bridge which was on the border," Feldman says. "The major led us all, single file, to the bridge, where two Iranian sergeants quickly took the heavy bags from Christine and the two children."

"I turned to the Russian major, and told him: 'There is the difference between a human being and an animal. These men are human.'"

Islands Being Overrun

Hawaii Fears Tourism Will Kill 'Aloha Spirit'

HONOLULU (AP) — The island into which this city nestles is called Oahu. It means "gathering place" in Hawaiian. And that may be the trouble.

Last year it was the gathering place for more than 710,000 tourists and nearly 7,000 American soldiers resting and recuperating from the rigors of Vietnam.

Airline ads beckon more and more mainlanders to this island paradise. And the Hawaiian Visitor's Bureau, a nonprofit outfit promoting tourism, predicts 1.5 million visitors to Hawaii by 1970.

That is about twice the present population.

It has awakened voices for and against tourism.

Scenic Areas
One of those disturbed by the growing number of people is Robert Wenkam, a conservationist who pulls no punches when it comes to preserving the state's scenic areas. His pronouncements have brought the wrath of politicians and others. Just recently the State Senate refused to confirm his reappointment to the Land Use Commission.

Wenkam said: "This tourism, coupled with population, could well be the greatest threat to the scenery of Hawaii, probably the primary reason most tourists come to Hawaii."

"We're already beginning to get the first symptoms of smog in Honolulu. You can find sewage floating in the water off Waikiki almost any day of the year. The highways, if they're not becoming crowded, are becoming interstate expressways. The beaches themselves are becoming crowded."

To Crowded
"It's not too difficult to find tourists who have been coming to Hawaii for several years who say, 'I'm not going to come anymore; it's too crowded.'"

The more tourists who come, the more the complaints about Hawaii. Robert C. Schmitt, state statistician, said one of the most frequent complaints is the lack of a Polynesian appearance. Why?

"There is a mass exodus of Hawaiians to the mainland," he said. "The Hawaiian population can't live here anymore, partly because they are a low income group."

Money Drain
Tourism is second only to the military in the amount of money brought into the islands. Last year the military spent $509 million. But like the military, Schmitt said, much of the tourist dollar is almost immediately siphoned off and returns to the mainland for goods and services consumed by the tourist but manufactured outside Hawaii.

Not only is the possibility of the destruction of Hawaii's natural beauty a subject of concern, but perhaps more important is the fear that the constant influx of people will destroy the way of life—that leisurely and open, child-like friendliness called "aloha."

Both Schmitt and Wenkam expressed their concern about the "erosion of the aloha spirit."

Wenkam said mass tourism causes the "whole quality of life in Hawaii to shrink, and this will reflect upon the feelings of us who live here."

Noncredit Finance Course Offered at Fox Valley Center

MENASHA — The UW Fox Valley Center is offering a noncredit course in "Corporation Finance" this fall.

Class sessions beginning Sept. 26, will meet from 7 p.m. Tuesdays for 16 weeks. The course is designed to acquaint students with external and internal facets of corporation finance, and is also applicable to the practitioner who desires a more thorough knowledge.

Howard Blochy, professor of economics at Lawrence University, will teach the course.

Topics to be discussed include: forms of business organization, common and preferred stocks, bonds, management responsibility, mergers, and reorganization and liquidation. Others are policy formation, sources of capital, government regulation of security issues and income, and working capital.

Fee for the course is $50. Registration forms or further information may be obtained by contacting the Extension office at the Fox Valley Center.

Course Scheduled In Chemistry by Vocational School

A course in high school chemistry will be offered this fall by the Area 12 Vocational, Technical and Adult School-Appleton, covering basic theory, practice and experimentation.

The 20-week course will be taught at 7 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays starting Oct. 3 in the chemistry laboratory at Appleton High School-East. The fee is $4.

It is designed for credit toward a high school diploma or for laboratory technicians who desire more training in basic chemistry.

Registration is scheduled from 5 to 8 p.m. Sept. 12 to 14 at the Vocational School.

Robert Hallada, chemistry instructor with the Appleton school system, will teach the course.

Venezuelans Claim Capture of Guerrilla

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Venezuelan authorities displayed at a news conference Saturday a man they said was a Cuban guerrilla—the fourth captured this year—who had been sent to help out Venezuela's faltering Communist insurgents.

Deputy Interior Minister Faustino Pulgar said the man was caught Thursday when detectives killed three Venezuelan insurgent leaders in two gun duels in the Caracas area.

Negroes Find New Success In Seeking Political Offices

By HAL COOPER
NEW YORK (AP) — Negro voters are making steady progress toward political power in the South and in the major cities of the North, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Most successful Negro candidates for public offices have run as Democratic or Republican nominees after winning primary elections. A few have been elected as independents or representatives of black-oriented splinter groups.

Richard D. Hatcher defeated Mayor A. Martin Katz of Gary, Ind., in the May 2 Democratic primary and will face a Republican in the Nov. 7 election.

Ohio State Rep. Carl B. Stokes, who came within 2,143 votes of unseating Mayor Ralph S. Locher of Cleveland as an independent, two years ago, is challenging Locher in the Democratic primary Oct. 3. The City Board of Elections said 4,726 new voters, 90 per cent of them Negroes, were registered in early August.

Strong Bid

A Negro is making a strong bid to become the first of his race to win election as mayor of Memphis, Tenn., one of the South's largest cities. The candidate, A. W. Willis, is running against six others, all white, for the Democratic nomination in the Oct. 5 primary. Willis is given a good chance to lead the first primary, but the winner will have to face the second man in a runoff unless he gets a majority of all votes cast.

If victorious, Willis, Hatcher and Stokes would be the first Negro mayors of major American cities to be elected by popular vote.

Until now, Floyd J. McCree of Flint, Mich., has been the only Negro mayor of a city of 200,000 or more. However, McCree was named mayor by the City Board of Commissioners after winning election as a commissioner in 1966.

McCree recently resigned as a protest against the commission's failure to adopt a law prohibiting racial discrimination in housing. He withdrew his resignation today.

California's first Negro senator, Mervyn Dymally, was elected as a Democrat last year, but complains that both major parties are dragging their heels on action to wipe out black slums.

As a result, Dymally said, Negro elected officials lose the confidence of their supporters, "hope gives way to hopelessness, and then to resentment and finally to Black Power and riots."

Number Increases

In 1966 there were only six Negro state senators in the United States. Today there are 31. There were only 30 Negro state representatives. Now there are 123.

Michigan elected Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr. as its first Negro in the U.S. House in 1954, and has since elected John J. Conyers Jr., thus becoming the only state with two Negro members in the House of Representatives.

In the last general election Edward W. Brooke was chosen a U.S. senator from Massachusetts, the first of his race in the upper chamber since Reconstruction.

Detroit, where a fourth of the voters are Negro, elected William Patrick as its first Negro city councilman in 1957. When he retired in 1964 he was succeeded by another Negro, the Rev. Nicholas Hood.

In Baltimore, where 150,000 of 400,000 registered voters are Negroes, Clarence D. Mitchell, a Negro state senator, is running for nomination for president of the City Council in the Democratic primary Sept. 7.

Mitchell's white running mate, seeking the nomination for mayor, is Peter Angeles, who has told Baltimore's Negroes.

'Time Has Come'

"Without your participation the victory of this ticket is in question, but with it we can win. The time has come for the Negro to participate in the affairs of the community, to contribute and to help save the American city."

In Connecticut, five Negroes were elected to the State Senate and House of Representatives last year. The previous General Assembly had only one Negro member, in the House.

In 1960, when Negroes made up 17.5 per cent of the population of Kansas City, Mo., no member of their race ever had served on the City Council or in any elective administrative office of Jackson County, where the city is located.

Now Negroes hold two of 13 City Council seats, one of six on the Board of Education, one of six on the Metropolitan Junior College Board, one Jackson County delegation to the Missouri House.

Mississippi has experienced an upsurge of Negro political activity in recent months. Only last year the first Negro to be elected to any public office in the upper levels of the government.

Peace is the main concern of hundreds of farmers, fishermen, and laborers interviewed in the countryside, and many observers believe that any candidate with a peace ticket would get tremendous backing from the rural population.

Few peasants can be found who believe that the current crop of presidential candidates can or will try to bring peace to Vietnam.

"On the whole there is a healthy pessimism in regard to promises and campaign speeches," said an American who has studied voter attitudes in the delta.

A rice farmer near Thu Thua typified his neighbors. "I want the shooting to stop and my family to be safe," he said. "We have had elections before, and the war goes on. These are rich men; they don't understand. It won't make any difference who wins."

A hamlet schoolteacher, asked why he would vote, said: "I will vote because the government asked me to. The government is very powerful and when they ask us to do something we're expected to do it."

As in other elections held in Vietnam, local officials have made it quite clear that it is to everyone's interest to have in his possession one of the green voting slips given those who vote.

A barber in Tan An, capital of Long An province, told a customer: "There are too many candidates for president. I don't know one from another."

Asked if he then would not vote, the barber replied: "Of course I will vote. Everyone goes to vote. Everybody has to go to vote."

What exposure has the voter in the delta had to election procedures, the candidates and the election issues?

Each province has a local radio station, and a bimonthly newspaper that is distributed free of charge to the government-controlled hamlets and International Airport in Cleveland and at Loran Station at Amherst.

The divers were unprepared for the landing in water. None had floating equipment, the two survivors said. Each carried about 50 pounds of equipment.

Patricia C. Lownsbury of Akron—who had celebrated her wedding on June 28, 1964 by sky diving with her husband—was found dead in the water.

"She loved sky diving," said her husband, Alvin, as he waited on the dock as the Coast Guard returned her body ashore Sunday night.

Lownsbury, an iron worker, had made the wedding sky dive with his bride. He quit jumping earlier this year after suffering his fourth broken leg.

The other known drowning victim was Dorsie Kitchen Jr., 33, also of Akron.

Too Close to Lake

One of the missing, Michael Thiem of Springfield, had told friends before the jump that he didn't like the idea of going. It was too close to Lake Erie and he couldn't swim, he told them.

Winds were estimated at 58 miles an hour at 20,000 feet up.

Robert Coy of Springfield, one of the survivors, said, "I was shocked and flabbergasted to see that I was over the lake. We assumed we were over the field."

"As soon as I broke out of the clouds, I knew something was wrong," Coy added. "All I saw was water." Coy had made 262 previous jumps.

"The waves were over my head and water was swishing into my mouth," he added. Coy said he stayed afloat by making

Officials said mortar shells killed 37 Vietnamese and wounded 203, and 51 of the casualties resulted from shells hitting a big hospital close to the U.S. military advisory compound. Four Americans were wounded.

Attacks on seven Vietnamese and American positions near Hoi An, 15 miles south of Da Nang, killed 15 civilians and wounded 34, a government spokesman said. He said 39 civilians were kidnapped.

The spokesman said 21 guerrillas were killed and five suspects detained.

One American in the medical advisory team at Hoi An was killed and four wounded. Seven American military advisors were wounded and Vietnamese troops suffered light casualties, the spokesman said.

Other shelling in the central highlands killed 14 civilians and damaged a number of helicopters on an airfield at Ban Me Thuot and caused "moderate casualties" at a South Vietnamese militia post near Pleiku.

American air raiders stayed south of Hanoi Sunday because of poor weather farther north. Navy fliers attacked the Chau Cau army barracks 34 miles south of the Red capital and the Nam Dinh railroad yard 45 miles southwest of Haiphong.

Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs struck at a radar site near Dong Hoi and Air Force Phantom pilots reported destroying 11 military buildings and sinking two cargo barges at a coastal shipping point 12 miles northwest of Dong Hoi.

The U.S. Command made no mention of any plane losses Sunday. North Vietnam claimed two American planes were shot down.

Negro Voters Will Play Strong Role in Mississippi Primary

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A personal campaign with discussion sharp increase in the number of issues in the closing days of Negro voters could be a deciding factor in Tuesday's Democratic state primary.

The contenders for governor, contests, they were clearly moving ahead on the county level. State Treasurer William Winter, 20-year-old Negro candidates, have pushed state's rights to the including four for sheriff, face foreground of the campaign. A dozen were elected outright in the first primary, since they face no independent or republican opposition in the general election.

In an Aug. 8 preliminary primary, Winter led with 22,001 votes. Williams polled 197,778 from the record 684,005 votes cast. The third place candidate, hard-line segregationist Jimmy Swan, got more than 124,000 votes.

Swan, whose voters were courted by both the runoff candidates, declined to endorse either one, saying that neither hit at Williams for what he said was willing to publicly pledge to was a lack of a program. He work for private, segregated schools. His key supporters with that of Mississippi's two have split between the two can-long-time conservator senators, didates.

Negro political activist James H. Meredith withheld an endorsement, pronouncing both candidates unsuitable, but he of his congressional seniority said he would make a judgment for supporting Barry Goldwater in the November general election. He attempted to label Winter the liberal of the race or meets Republican Rubel Phillips of Jackson.

Plane Falls on Takeoff At Portage, 2 Injured

PORTAGE (AP) — Two men suffered serious injuries Sunday when a light plane crashed on takeoff from a landing strip.

Paul Vesely, 22, and John Trojanowski, 51, both of Portage, were pinned in the wreckage of the plane.

Authorities said Trojanowski was piloting the plane when it failed to clear a grove of trees at the end of the strip in a swampy area along the Wisconsin River.

Holiday Weekends Nearer to Reality

BY SYLVIA PORTER

This coming weekend, Sept. 2-4, we are getting the only three-day weekend of the year aside from Christmas.

This year, our national holidays have hardly been holidays at all. Memorial Day and Independence Day fell on Tuesdays, Washington's Birthday fell on a Wednesday. And next year will be just as bad.

But, at last, the long-term drives by those of us who have been pleading for the Monday holiday plan, seem ready for payoff. The chances are very strong that legislation before Congress will be passed this year to give us a minimum of five or six long weekends, in addition to our Christmas and New Year's holidays and our annual vacations.

At least a dozen bills are now in Senate and House committees to rearrange our national holidays so that most of them would fall on Mondays instead of on any day of the week.

'President's Day'

Under one of the bills introduced last month by Congressman Robert McClory (R-Ill.), and typical of those now getting serious attention:

Washington's Birthday would be re-named "President's Day" and would be celebrated on the third Monday in February; Memorial Day would be celebrated on the last Monday in May instead of May 30th; Independence Day would be switched to the first Monday in July; Veterans' Day would fall on the last Monday in October instead of on Nov. 11; Thanksgiving Day would be on the fourth Monday in November instead of the fourth Thursday.

The advantages of creating more three-day weekends are obvious. This would boost our opportunities for rest, recreation and travel. It would simplify factory production schedules by eliminating the problem of costly one-day mid-week shutdowns. It would stimulate the U.S. domestic travel industry.

Until now, Monday Holiday bills have died in Congress because, as Congressman McClory put it in an interview, "lawmakers were exaggerating the public's nostalgia about historic national holidays." But it is now becoming clear that the idea has almost unanimous support from organized business and labor, from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the U.S. travel industry, from the administration and, overwhelmingly, from the public. Polls have found 95 per cent of the public in favor of Monday holidays. Virtually the only opposition to the plan comes from the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Actually, George Washington was born on Feb. 11, according to the Gregorian Calendar then in effect. Memorial Day, before 1868, was celebrated in April, in May and in June. The keeping has been celebrated August and in October. The plan is to honor not just veterans of World War I but of all wars. Independence Day is open to debate because the rewriting, signing and voting of the Declaration of Independence was spread out over a month in 1776.

Would a slew of new long weekends mean a new blood bath on our highways? No, say the experts. The "danger rate" of rushed, mid-week holidays actually is far greater than it is for more leisurely long weekends.

So let's finally have our Monday Holiday bill in 1967 — to give the calendar-makers time to put the plan into effect in 1970. Incidentally, this would be just about the only legislation in years that wouldn't cost any of us a penny.

'Think African' Shop Advocates In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Think African," Rosanna Wright suggests to Negro women coming to her shop.

The brightly printed cotton styles will replace the mod look as the latest clothing fad, she predicts.

The shop selling "the African look" was opened recently by a Negro self-help organization called Operation Bootstrap.

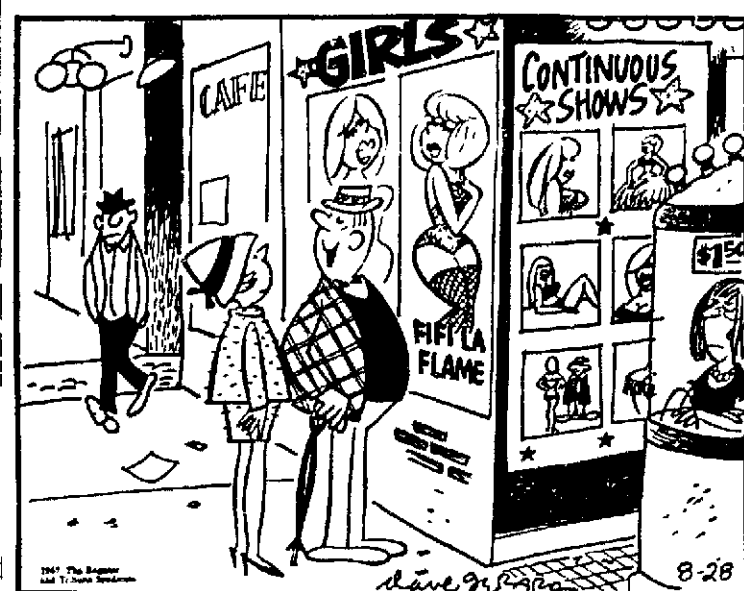

Mrs. Wright wears the loose dress styles patterned after African garb and has had her hair cut in the short style of African women.

The African section of the shop is called ekhaya—Zulu for "going home." It offers copies of African dress, some of African design. Most are made in Los Angeles of printed cotton imported from Ghana and Nigeria.

Louis Smith, president of Bootstrap, said the organization started its store without government money. He said it expects to have its own factories in operation within six months.

State Itself is Buying

State Does Not Have Surplus Land for Sale

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Are you one of the thousands of persons who yearns to own a piece of wild land for for: tr: d enjoyment or simply for hunting and fishing?

The state government sympathizes with the aspiration, and in fact wants to encourage it, but it doesn't have surplus land for sale.

Moreover, the time has long since passed when counties offered tax delinquent lands for sale to the public at auction. Most of such repossessed acreage has been incorporated into state, county and national forest preserves.

Publication Discusses Interest

The state conservation division in a current publication discusses the phenomenal interest of city residents and others in the acquisition of wild land and advises them to consult licensed real estate brokers in the districts that interest them.

But it emphasizes that it is not offering any of its lands for sale.

In fact, the division is engaged in a heavy land buying program on its own account, to expand public recreational opportunities and to preserve them for future Wisconsin citizens, and in effect may be a competitor of private purchasers as a result.

Department Will Advise

The department explains to land-hungry inquirers that it stands ready to advise them on land use and timber management, after they have acquired their own properties. Officials also explain that there is an increasing movement to regulate land use through zoning ordinances.

The prospective buyer would be prudent, they suggest, in checking at the county courthouse for such land use plans, actual and prospective, to guard against unexpected regulations and disappointment.

Brian Epstein Manager of Beatles, Dies

LONDON (AP) — A post-mortem probably will be held to determine what killed Brian Epstein, but one friend said the 32-year-old discoverer of the Beatles had been in poor health for months.

Epstein, whose promotion of the Beatles and other pop music stars made him a millionaire, was found dead in bed at his $100,000 home near Buckingham palace Sunday.

"No notes were found at the house," said a spokesman for Scotland Yard. "As far as we are concerned there are no suspicious circumstances."

After failing to make the grade as an acting student at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, Epstein went to work building a record department in his father's Liverpool furniture store. Intrigued by the number of requests he got for a German record made by a local pop group called the Beatles, he sought them out at the Liverpool Cavern Club in October, 1961, and became their manager.

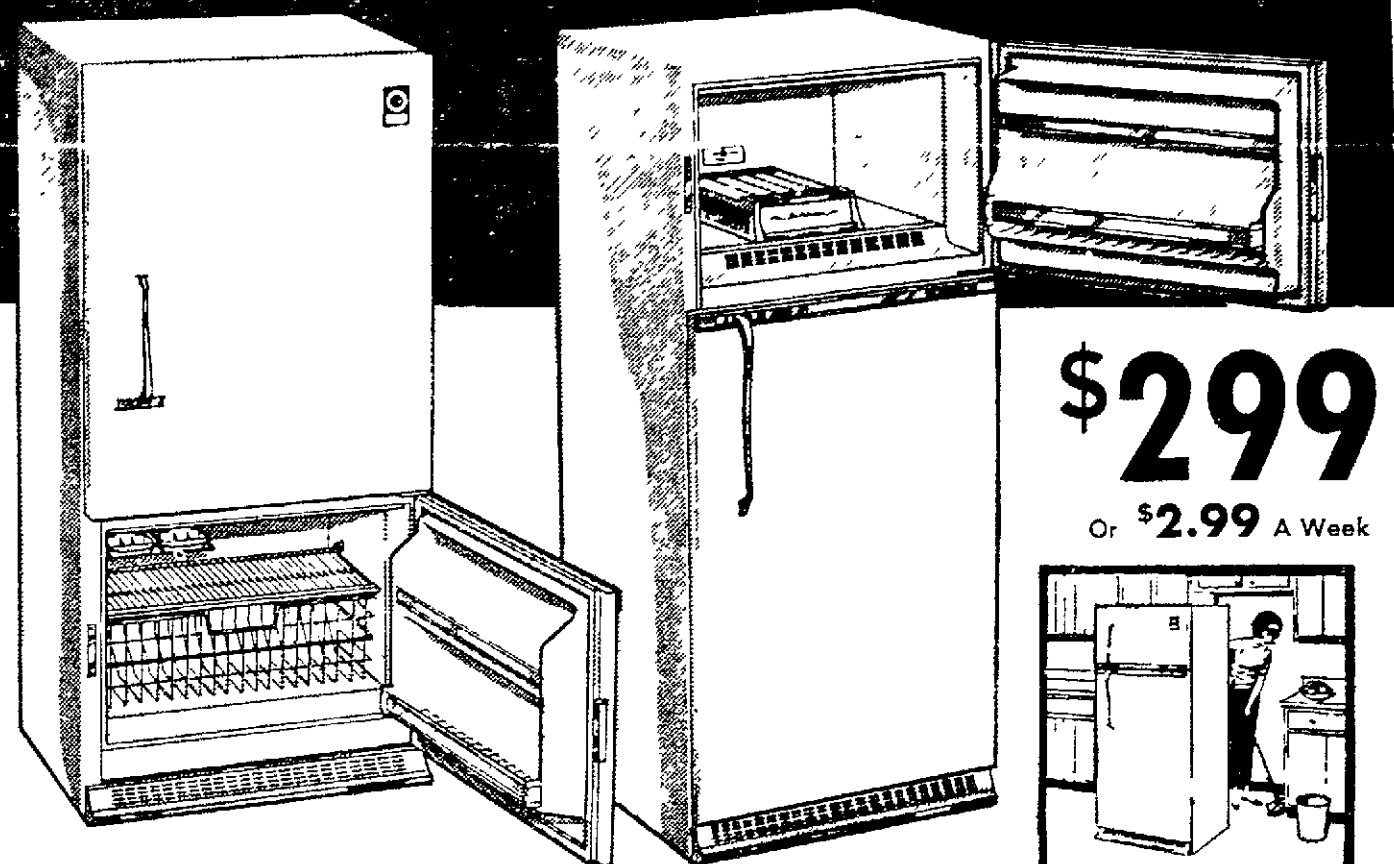

During the last five years the Beatles are reckoned to have earned between $56 million and $84 million, and Epstein's personal fortune was estimated at around $16.8 million.
